Queer French Denis M. Provencher, 2016-05-23 In this book Denis M Provencher examines the tensions between Anglo American and French articulations of homosexuality and sexual citizenship in the context of contemporary French popular culture and first person narratives In the light of recent political events and the perceived hegemonic role of US forces throughout the world an examination of the French resistance to globalization and Americanization is timely in this context He argues that contemporary French gay and lesbian cultures rely on long standing French narratives that resist US models of gay experience He maintains that French gay experiences are mitigated through gay French language that draws on several canonical voices including Jean Genet and Jean Paul Sartre and various universalistic discourses Drawing on material from a diverse array of media Queer French draws out the importance of a French gay linguistic and semiotic tradition that emerges in contemporary textual practices and discourses as they relate to sexual citizenship in 20th and 21st century France It will appeal to an interdisciplinary readership in gender and sexuality studies cultural studies linguistics media and communication studies and French studies

Queers in State Socialism Tomasz Basiuk, Jędrzej Burszta, 2020-10-22 This short collection of essays engages with queer lives and activism in 1970s Poland illustrating discourses about queerness and a trajectory of the struggle for rights which clearly sets itself apart and differs from a Western based narrative of liberation Contributors to this volume paint an uneven landscape of queer life in state socialist Poland in the 1970s and early 1980s They turn to oral history interviews and archival sources which include police files personal letters literature and criticism writings by sexuality experts and documentation of artistic practice Unlike most of Europe Poland did not penalize same sex acts although queer people were commonly treated with suspicion and vilified But while many homosexual men and most lesbian women felt invisible and alone some had the sense of belonging to a fledgling community As they looked to the West hoping for a sexual revolution that never quite arrived they also preserved informal queer institutions dating back to the prewar years and used them to their advantage Medical experts conversed with peers across the Iron Curtain but developed their own socialist methods and successfully prompted the state to recognize transgender rights even as that state remained determined to watch and intimidate homosexual men Literary critics translators and art historians began debating and they debate still how to read gestures defying gender and sexual norms as an aspect of some global gay formation or as stemming from locally grounded queer traditions Emphasizing the differences of Poland's LGBT history from that of the global West while underscoring the existing lines of communication between queer subjects on either side of the Iron Curtain this book will be of key interest to scholars and students in gender and sexuality studies social history and politics

Hong Kong Taiwan Singapore and the global Chinese diaspora Featuring chapters by leading scholars from around the world this book rewrites literature history and culture from a queer lens in China and globally Queer Things About Egypt Douglas Sladen, 2013-05-31 Douglas Brooke Wheelton Sladen was an English author He studied at Trinity College Oxford and went to Australia 1879 where he became the first professor of history in the University of Sydney Subsequently he traveled much and settled in London as a writer Poems by Margaret Thomas were included in a work in the 1880s Sladen takes up his pen to describe the humours of Egyptian society Egyptian servants and above all the humours and delights of travel in Upper Egypt He gives glimpses of all the everyday life of the Englishman in Egypt from doing business with Egyptians to donkey riding He also devotes several chapters to the eccentricities of the Egyptian Court The incidents in them were the actual experiences of a very high official and his wife given to him for publication Not less interesting to some people than the humours of Egyptian high life Egyptian patriotism and Egyptian morality will be the advice on curio buying in Egypt when you have not much money to spend The book is not entirely taken up with anecdotes and absurdities Like Queer Things about Japan and Queer Things about Persia it devotes half its pages to the monuments the romance the mystery and the poetry of the Orient The fascination of Egypt is extraordinary its monuments are matchless Queer Folk Edward Hugessen Knatchbull-Hugessen Baron Brabourne, 1874 History's Queer Stories Natalie Marena Nobitz, 2018-10-04 Critical analysis of the dramatisation of homosexuality in British fiction about the Second World War is noticeable only by its relative absence from the field Whereas feminist literary criticism has broadened the canon of war fiction to include narratives by and about women queer scholars have seldom focused on literary representations of homosexuality during the war Natalie Marena Nobitz closes a glaring gap in the critical attention of four novels dealing with the disruption of gender roles and institutionalised heteronormativity Walter Baxter's Look Down in Mercy 1951 Mary Renault's The Charioteer 1953 Sarah Waters The Night Watch 2006 and Adam Fitzroy's Make Do and Mend 2012
