How (primary) emotions for persons of differing attitudes affect other people.

Attitudes

What is the definition of attitudes?

It is the process of explaining other people's behaviour as being a result of internal dispositions or personal characteristics.

What is the functional definition of it?

It is the tendency for dispositional or stable personal attributes (attitudes and personality dispositions) influence other people's behaviour.

Structure of the Emotion Chapter

How does emotion affect the (our learned) emotional attitude towards the two groups? How does emotion affect a person's behaviour towards one of the groups? Which of the above is the negative and groups have reacted with hostility to?

Yes, I would say that I think it is more related to the two groups. From thought there must be people in group B, I think that it would be related to the value rather in people I would want to identify with compared to group B.

Personality as Emotion 10.10

What are attitudes?

Attitudes are generalizations about a group of people that characterize how people have reacted.

What are (three) conditions related to personality?
