The Politics of Collaborative Public Management Robert Agranoff, Aleksey Kolpakov, 2023-06-30 Although one often thinks of collaborative management and related group problem solving as different interests coming together in peaceful harmony nothing could be further from reality Collaboration in real world action requires steering and negotiation in virtually every situation with a considerable process that precedes agreement This progression is in effect a mini political and managerial process we have come to know as collaborative politics and its management This volume explores the process and operations of collaboration and collaborative politics from routine transactions or small p politics to the significant issue forces or big P politics Collaboration is defined here as the process of facilitating and operating in multiorganizational arrangements for addressing problems and producing solutions through the contributions of several organizations and individuals Throughout the book readers are gradually exposed to analysis of key findings in collaborative politics from the long research tradition in policy and political science This book adapts a series of stories to highlight some of the dynamics of collaborative politics from a range of jurisdictions It further analyzes the efficacy of storytelling as a learning tool and contributor to practice in different contexts With collaborative politics often associated with negotiations among administrative actors authors Drs Robert Agranoff and Aleksey Kolpakov demonstrate how interorganizational interagency collaboration operates and is managed as well as how it has been modified or adjusted in its fundamental core concepts of bureaucratic organization and hierarchy The Politics of Collaborative Public Management is designed as a core text for undergraduate and graduate classes on collaborative management and governance

Food for Thought Colleen M. Heflin, Madonna Harrington Meyer, 2025-09-05 While food insecurity among households with children often makes the headlines a quieter issue that receives much less attention is the food insecurity faced by older adults In 2023 over nine percent of Americans age sixty and older were food insecure Without policy intervention that number is only expected to grow as the U S population continues to age In Food for Thought social policy scholar Colleen M Heflin and sociologist Madonna Harrington Meyer illuminate the challenges faced by food insecure older adults Through analysis of national data sets and interviews with lower income older adults Heflin and Harrington Meyer describe why many older adults do not have enough money to afford food and other essentials As a result of chronic economic disadvantage food insecure older adults are often forced to make budget trade offs between food and other expenses In these trade offs food typically ranks below housing and energy costs and competes with other household bills such as medical costs transportation and phone and internet coverage While finances play a large role nonfinancial factors such as poor physical cognitive and mental health access to healthy food and transportation challenges also contribute to food insecurity in old age In the face of these difficulties food insecure older adults may go hungry skip meals or eat unhealthy foods to help make ends meet While SNAP and community based programs such as food pantries and home delivered meals are intended to help address the issue of food insecurity they are typically inadequate to address the needs of food insecure older adults SNAP has enrollment and maintenance procedures that are particularly difficult for older adults to navigate pays out an insufficient amount of money to cover food costs and varies greatly by state Availability of community programs varies by municipality often lacks nutritious foods that are complementary to health conditions common among older adults and can be difficult to access due to a lack of reliable transportation disability or cost Heflin and Harrington Meyer advocate for addressing all the issues that increase older adults risk of food insecurity not just financial barriers They suggest updating food insecurity screening tools to include these factors increasing SNAP benefits and income support for older adults and other policies to help combat food insecurity in older adults Food for Thought highlights the increasingly important issue of food insecurity in old age and lays bare the overlooked challenges faced by food insecure older adults
