Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 15 sedentary women, 30 to 45 years of age, who were randomly selected from a telephone directory. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group consisted of 8 women who did not exercise, and the exercise group consisted of 7 women who exercised for 10 weeks. The exercise group was instructed to exercise for 30 minutes, 3 times per week, at a heart rate of 150 beats per minute. The control group was instructed to remain sedentary. The subjects were monitored for 10 weeks. The HR and EE were measured at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The HR and EE of the exercise group increased significantly over the 10-week period, while the HR and EE of the control group remained relatively stable. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can increase the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.
