

PARENTING STYLES

Parenting styles are often categorized into four main types based on the work of psychologist Diana Baumrind.

These styles reflect different approaches to parenting and have varying impacts on a child's development.

AUTHORITATIVE

Style: Parents have clear expectations, but are also responsive, nurturing, and willing to collaborate with the child.

Discipline: Natural consequences, guidance, and discussion are used to remediate behaviors and establish boundaries.

Impact: Kids tend to be more self-reliant, socially competent, and have higher self-esteem and academic achievement due to reliable and considerate support.

DISENGAGED

Style: Parents are neither demanding nor responsive and they provide little emotional support, guidance, or attention to the child's needs.

Discipline: Due to lack of parental presence or investment, rules and boundaries are not enforced.

Impact: Kids may experience emotional and behavioral difficulties, have low self-esteem, and struggle academically and socially due to the lack of parental involvement.

AUTHORITARIAN

Style: Parents are highly demanding and directive, and they expect compliance without much explanation or flexibility.

Discipline: Strict punishment, lectures, and yelling are used to enforce rules.

Impact: Kids may be superficially obedient, but tend to struggle with low self-esteem, social competence, and anxiety due to the lack of autonomy, collaboration, and empathetic parental response.

PERMISSIVE

Style: Parents are highly responsive and accommodating, but have few demands, boundaries, or expectations.

Discipline: Rules and boundaries are not enforced, and kids are often appeased for poor behavior or emotional distress.

Impact: Kids may exhibit increased independence and creativity, but may also struggle with self-regulation, discipline, anxiety, and authority due to lack of structure.
