

Chapter 4 Case Study: Personal Finance, Inc. Data-Pooling Summary

Below is the summary of information that resulted:

Personal Finance, Inc. owns and operates Mutual Funds in a direct relationship with the client.

Since about 1980, and that company is planning an international expansion by opening a new "subsidiary" in the British area. Personal Finance's president, Charles L. Hall, asked an IT consultant,

Susan Park, to help develop an information system for that new facility. During the project, Susan will work closely with Greg Lewis, who will manage the new operation.

Background

During requirements modeling for the new system, Susan Park met with several senior managers and, as several Personal Finance executives. She conducted a series of interviews, reviewed company reports, discussed business operations, analyzed the financial data processing systems, and identified a complex of tasks and billing transactions. Susan's objective was to develop a list of system requirements for the proposed system.

The system must be able to maintain, without redundancy, both full and partial. Full members have access to all activities. Limited members are restricted in that they have no access to the system's database. In other words, they are not allowed to change privileges. Changes to membership and services are recorded in exchange slips, which is signed by the member.

At the end of each day, each entry and change are entered into the financial data processing system. The financial data processing system is used to track the system. Daily cash receipts are deposited into the system and credited to the company's Personal Finance account. The financial data processing system is used to track the system, and to track the system's activities.

At the end of the month, the financial manager uses financial data processing system to generate monthly summary of the Personal Finance financial data processing system, which is then used to generate
