Robert R. Sokal and F. James Rohlf ... Robert R. Sokal,1969 A Book of Set Theory Charles C Pinter,2014-06-01
Accessible approach to set theory for upper level undergraduates poses rigorous but simple arguments Topics include classes and sets functions natural and cardinal numbers arithmetic of ordinal numbers and more 1971 edition with new material by author Statistical Tables [by] F. James Rohlf [and] Robert R. Sokal F. James Rohlf,1969 Biometry Robert R. Sokal,F. James Rohlf,1995 Offers students with little background in statistical analysis an introduction to a variety of statistical concepts and methods In addition to the incorporation of computer calculation this new edition expands on a number of important topics including the revised Kolmogorov Smirnov test The Thirteen Books of Euclid's Elements Euclid,Sir Thomas Little Heath,1956-01-01 The definitive edition of one of the very greatest classics of all time the full Euclid encompassing almost 2500 years of mathematical and historical study This unabridged republication of the original enlarged edition contains the complete English text of all 13 books of the ELEMENTS plus analyses of each definition postulate and proposition Experimental Design for the Life Sciences Graeme Ruxton,Nick Colegrave,2011 Providing students with clear and practical advice on how best to organise experiments and collect data so as to make the subsequent analysis easier and their conclusions more robust this text assumes no specialist knowledge Book catalog of the Library and Information Services Division Environmental Science Information Center. Library and Information Services Division,1977 The Thirteen Books of the Elements Euclid,2012-08-15 Volume 2 of 3 volume set containing complete English text of all 13 books of the Elements plus critical analysis of each definition postulate and proposition Vol 2 includes Books 3 9 Circles relationships rectilinear figures Book Catalog of the Library and Information Services Division: Shelf List catalog Environmental Science Information Center. Library and Information Services Division,1977 Quick Bibliography Series ,1976 Naming Nature: The Clash Between Instinct and Science Carol Kaesuk Yoon,2010-08-02 Examines the history of taxonomy describing the quest of scientists to name and classify living things from Carl Linnaeus to early twenty first century scientists who rely more on microscopic evidence than their senses which has encouraged an indifference to nature that is responsible for the extinction of many species The Godelian Puzzle Book Raymond M. Smullyan,2013-09-19 These recreational logic puzzles provide entertaining variations on Gödel's incompleteness theorems offering ingenious challenges related to infinity truth and provability undecidability and other concepts Written by a distinguished mathematician and creator of numerous popular puzzle books this volume requires no background in formal logic and will delight readers of all ages Perspectives in Zoology Alan Boyden,2013-10-22 Perspectives in Zoology tries to discuss in a critical way some of the aspects of biology that lack perspective The book also calls into attention the possibilities of obtaining a more correct view and challenges views that already have already been accepted by the scientific community In this thought provoking book many questions are raised and different viewpoints and their implications are considered in the areas of natural history

Coverage includes the great ages of evolution the primitive evolution in the eumatozoa the morphological comparisons between homology and analogy systematic serology and its principles and the relationship of systemics evolution and phylogeny The text is recommended for students and professors that deal with biology zoology genetics and evolution who not only wish to explore and understand other approaches to popular theories in zoology but also wish to be more familiarized and delve deeper with the common yet frequently discussed and debated topics in the field Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1983 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 The Nature of Classification J. Wilkins,M. Ebach,2013-11-27 Discussing the generally ignored issue of the classification of natural objects in the philosophy of science this book focuses on knowledge and social relations and offers a way to understand classification as a necessary aspect of doing science Standing Operating Procedures for Developing Acute Exposure Guideline Levels for Hazardous Chemicals National Research Council,Commission on Life Sciences,Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology,Committee on Toxicology,Subcommittee on Acute Exposure Guideline Levels,2001-05-25 Standing Operating Procedures for Developing Acute Exposure Guideline Levels for Hazardous Chemicals contains a detailed and comprehensive methodology for developing acute exposure guideline levels AEGLs for toxic substances from inhalation exposures The book provides guidance on what documents and databases to use toxicity endpoints that need to be evaluated dosimetry corrections from animal to human exposures selection of appropriate uncertainty factors to address the variability between animals and humans and within the human population selection of modifying factors to address data deficiencies time scaling and quantitative cancer risk assessment It also contains an example of a summary of a technical support document and an example of AEGL derivation This book will be useful to persons in the derivation of levels from other exposure routes both oral and dermal as well as risk assessors in the government academe and private industry The Impact of Low-Level Radioactive Waste Management Policy on Biomedical Research in the United States National Research Council,Commission on Life Sciences,Board on Radiation Effects Research,Committee on the Impact of Low-Level Radioactive Waste Management Policy on Biomedical Research in the United States,2001-02-09 The National Research Council s Committee on the Impact of Low Level Radioactive Waste Management Policy on Biomedical Research in the United States was called on to assess the effects of the low level radioactive waste management policy on the current and future activities of biomedical research This report provides an assessment of the effects of the current management policy for low level radioactive waste LLRW and resulting consequences such as higher LLRW disposal costs and onsite storage of LLRW on the current and future activities of biomedical research That assessment will include evaluating the effects that the lack of facilities and disposal capacity and rules of disposal facilities have on institutions conducting medical and biological research and on hospitals where radioisotopes are used for the diagnosis and treatment of disease Review of the Hanford Thyroid Disease Study Draft Final Report National Academy of Sciences,Commission on Life Sciences,Board on Radiation Effects Research,Committee on an Assessment of Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Radiation Studies from DOE Contractor Sites: Subcommittee to Review the Hanford Thyroid Disease Study Final Results and Report, 2000-02-01 In 1986 officials of the US Department of Energy revealed that the Hanford Atomic Products Operations in Richland Washington had been releasing radioactive material in particular iodine 131 into the environment over a period of years This information which confirmed the suspicions of some people in the Pacific Northwest about what they called the Hanford Reservation or just Hanford created quite a stir Both the US Congress and citizens of the Northwest became keenly interested in knowing whether these radiation releases had caused human health effects They were particularly concerned about whether Hanford releases of iodine 131 had led to an increase in thyroid disease among the population of the area In 1988 Congress ordered a study of the human health effects of exposure to the iodine 131 released from Hanford Funded by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC the study was carried out by the Seattle based Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center over the last decade The study examined estimate of exposure of the thyroid and rates of thyroid disease because iodine 131 concentrates in the thyroid and that organ would be the best indicator of radiation damage in the population The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC asked the National Academy of Sciences National Research Council NAS NRC to give an independent appraisal of the study methodology results and interpretation and of the communication of the study results to the public Review of the Hanford Thyroid Disease Study Draft Final Report constitutes the response of the NRC subcommittee to that request To respond to the charge the NRC subcommittee felt that it needed to go beyond the specific questions addressed to it by CDC and develop a broad understanding and critique of the HTDS and the Draft Final Report As part of those activities the subcommittee solicited comments from outside experts and members of the public primarily in a public meeting held in Spokane Washington in June 1999 where 14 scientists and members of the public made formal presentations to the subcommittee about various aspects of the Draft Final Report Other members of the public also spoke during four open comment sessions at the meeting In addition efforts were made to evaluate all information materials prepared for the public and additional CDC communication plans Information was gathered through interviews with journalists members of concerned citizen groups in the Hanford region members of the CDC scientific and media staff in Atlanta and the HTDS investigators In this summary the main points follow the structure of our report and are presented under several headings epidemiologic and clinical methods and data collection dosimetry statistical analyses statistical power and interpretation of the study and communication of the study results to the public We then provide a brief synopsis of our response to the questions raised by CDC

Strengthening Science at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency National Research Council, Commission on Life Sciences, Commission on Geosciences, Environment, and Resources, Board on Environmental Studies in Toxicology, Committee on Research and Peer Review in EPA, 2000-10-25 In the three decades since the U S Environmental Protection Agency EPA was created the agency's scientific and technical practices and credibility have been independently assessed many times in reports from the National Research Council NRC EPA Science Advisory Board General Accounting Office and many other organizations in congressional oversight and judicial proceedings and in countless criticisms and lawsuits from stakeholders with interests in particular EPA regulatory decisions As a previous independent panel put it in the 1992 report Safeguarding the Future Credible Science Credible Decisions EPA's policy and regulatory work receives a great deal of public attention but the agency's scientific performance typically receives a similar degree of attention only when the scientific basis for a decision is questioned Thus strong scientific performance is important not only to enable EPA to make informed and effective decisions but also to gain credibility and public support for the environmental protection efforts of EPA and the nation This report is the fourth and final one in a series prepared by two independent expert committees convened by the NRC in response to a request from Congress and to subsequent related requests from EPA The Committee on Research Opportunities and Priorities for EPA the companion committee in this study was charged to provide an overview of significant emerging environmental issues identify and prioritize research themes most relevant to understanding and resolving those issues and consider the role of EPA's research program in the context of research being conducted or supported by other organizations That committee published an interim report in 1996 and a final report Building a Foundation for Sound Environmental Decisions in 1997 The Committee on Research and Peer Review in EPA was charged to evaluate research management and scientific peer review practices in the agency The committee published an interim report in 1995 and this final report

A Review of the Draft Report of the NCI-CDC Working Group to Revise the 1985 Radioepidemiological Tables National Academy of Sciences, Commission on Life Sciences, Board on Radiation Effects Research, Committee on an Assessment of Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Radiation Studies from DOE Contractor Sites: Subcommittee to Review Radioepidemiological Tables, 2000-12-22 The National Research Council was asked by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC to review the draft report of the National Cancer Institute NCI CDC's working group charged with revising the 1985 radioepidemiological tables To this end a subcommittee was formed consisting of members of the Council's Committee on an Assessment of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Radiation Programs and other experts The original tables were mandated under Public Law 97 414 the Orphan Drug Act and were intended to provide a means of estimating the probability that a person who developed any of a series of radiation related cancers developed the cancer as a result of a specific radiation dose received before the onset of the cancer The mandate included a provision for periodic updating of the tables The motivation for the current revision reflects the availability of new data especially on cancer incidence and new methods of analysis and the need for a more thorough treatment of uncertainty in the estimates than was attempted in the original tables
