High Performance Transaction Systems Dieter Gawlick,Mark Haynie,1989-04-26 This Lecture Notes volume is based on the International Workshop on High Performance Transaction Systems held in the Asilomar Conference Center September 28 30 1987 Many of the problems identified during the workshop are liable to determine the future development of transaction systems and distributed high performance systems in general for many years to come So the organizers of HPTS 87 felt encouraged to collect the papers presented at the workshop in order to make them accessible to a wider audience of interested developers and researchers Since some of the contributions represented work in progress the authors agreed to prepare revised and updated versions of their papers for this publication This accounts for the long delay between the event itself and the publication but on the other hand it provides the reader with a state of the art account of transaction processing topics The book is organized according to the major sections of the workshop In the network section the reader finds an analysis of two of the major paradigms in networking ISO OSI and SNA from the perspective of transaction processing In the next section four different transaction processing and database systems are described Model 204 a database management system marketed by Computer Corporation of America Tandem s NonStop SQL Citicorp s transaction processing system and ALCS which basically is a version of TPF running under MVS XA The section on architectural issues contains four very different contributions which are fairly representative of the type of problems in transaction systems investigated in the research community Finally performance evaluations and system comparisons are presented

Foundation Engineering Handbook Hsai-Yang Fang,1990-12-31 More than ten years have passed since the first edition was published During that period there have been a substantial number of changes in geotechnical engineering especially in the applications of foundation engineering As the world population increases more land is needed and many soil deposits previously deemed unsuitable for residential housing or other construction projects are now being used Such areas include problematic soil regions mining subsidence areas and sanitary landfills To overcome the problems associated with these natural or man made soil deposits new and improved methods of analysis design and implementation are needed in foundation construction As society develops and living standards rise tall buildings transportation facilities and industrial complexes are increasingly being built Because of the heavy design loads and the complicated environments the traditional design concepts construction materials methods and equipment also need improvement Further recent energy and material shortages have caused additional burdens on the engineering profession and brought about the need to seek alternative or cost saving methods for foundation design and construction The Tragedie of Coriolanus William Shakespeare,1908
