Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and a training group. The control group consisted of 10 men who did not exercise regularly, and the training group consisted of 10 men who participated in a 12-week training program. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during maximal exercise before and after the training program. The results showed that the HR and HRR increased significantly in the training group compared to the control group. The HR increased from 72 to 82 beats per minute (b/min) at rest and from 165 to 175 b/min during maximal exercise. The HRR increased from 93 to 93 b/min at rest and from 93 to 93 b/min during maximal exercise. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the HR and HRR of sedentary middle-aged men.
