Self Prescott Lecky, 2003-01-01 Self-Consistency, A Theory of Personality; Edited and Interpreted by Frederick C. Thorne Prescott Lecky, 1961 Elsevier's Dictionary of Psychological Theories J.E. Roeckelein, 2006-01-19 In attempting to understand and explain various behaviour events and phenomena in their field psychologists have developed and enunciated an enormous number of best guesses or theories concerning the phenomenon in question Such theories involve speculations and statements that range on a potency continuum from strong to weak The term theory itself has been conceived of in various ways in the psychological literature In the present dictionary the strategy of lumping together all the various traditional descriptive labels regarding psychologists best guesses under the single descriptive term theory has been adopted The descriptive labels of principle law theory model paradigm effect hypothesis and doctrine are attached to many of the entries and all such descriptive labels are subsumed under the umbrella term theory The title of this dictionary emphasizes the term theory implying both strong and weak best guesses and is a way of indication overall the contents of this comprehensive dictionary in a parsimonious and felicitous fashion The dictionary will contain approximately 2 000 terms covering the origination development and evolution of various psychological concepts as well as the historical definition analysis and criticisms of psychological concepts Terms and definitions are in English Contains over 2 000 terms covering the origination development and evolution of various psychological concepts Covers a wide span of theories from auditory cognitive tactile and visual to humor and imagery An essential resource for psychologists needing a single source quick reference Human Motivation and Interpersonal Relationships Netta Weinstein, 2014-07-08 This volume summarizes and organizes a growing body of research supporting the role of motivation in adaptive and rewarding interpersonal interactions with others The field of human motivation is rapidly growing but most studies have focused on the effects of motivation on individuals personal happiness and task engagement Only recently have theorists and empiricists begun to recognize that dispositional and state motivations impact the ways individuals approach interpersonal interactions In addition researchers are now recognizing that the quality of interpersonal interactions influences consequent happiness and task engagement thus helping to explain previous findings to this end Similarly social psychology and relationships researchers have focused on the impact of cognitions emotions and behaviors on people s relationships In their work relationships researchers demonstrate that both contextual characteristics and individual differences influence the quality of interactions Many of these studies seek to understand which characteristics strengthen the bonds between people encourage empathy and trust and create a sense of well being after a close interaction

This work seeks to integrate the field of human motivation and interpersonal relationships Both fields have seen extensive growth in the past decade and each can contribute to the other However no single compiled work is available that targets both fields This is the case in part because only now is there enough work to make a strong and compelling case for their integration In the previous years research has been conducted to show that motivation is relevant and important for interactions among strangers and in close relationships In addition developmental mechanisms for these relations are identified and mechanisms by which motivation strengthens people s relationships Finally recent work has demonstrated the many implications for interpersonal relationships showing that motivation impacts a range of interpersonal processes from prejudice regulation and objectification of others to empathy and care This book seeks to summarize and organize all these findings and present them in a way that is relevant to both motivation researchers and social and relationship researchers
