Night By Elie Wiesel Self Actualization:

Instinct for Freedom Alan Clements, 2009 Forms of Exile in Jewish Literature and Thought Bronislava Volková, 2021-08-31 Forms of Exile in Jewish Literature and Thought deals with the concept of exile on many levels from the literal to the metaphorical. It combines analyses of predominantly Jewish authors of Central Europe of the twentieth century who are not usually connected including Kafka, Kraus, Levi, Lustig, Wiesel, and Frankl. It follows the typical routes that exiled writers took from East to West and later often as far as America. The concept and forms of exile are analyzed from many different points of view and great importance is devoted especially to the forms of inner exile. In Forms of Exile in Jewish Literature and Thought, Bronislava Volková, an exile herself and thus intimately familiar with the topic through her own experience, develops a unique typology of exile that will enrich the field of intellectual and literary history of twentieth century Europe and America.

Restorative Practice Meets Social Justice Anthony H. Normore, Antonia Issa Lahera, 2017-01-01 Restorative Practice Meets Social Justice: Unsilencing the Voices of At-Risk Student Populations is a collection of pragmatic urban school experiences that focus on restorative approaches situated in the context of social justice. By adopting this approach, researchers and practitioners can connect and extend long-established lines of conceptual and empirical inquiry aimed at improving school practices and thereby gain insights that may otherwise be overlooked or assumed. This holds great promise for generating, refining, and testing theories of restorative practices in educational leadership and will help strengthen already vibrant lines of inquiry on social justice. The authors posit that a broader conceptualization of social and restorative justice adds to extant discourse about students who not only experience various types of daily oppression in US schools but also regularly live on the fringes of society. Chapters are written by a combination of researchers and practicing school leaders who believe in the power of healing and restoring relationships within school communities as opposed to traditional punitive structures. The dynamic approaches discussed throughout the book urge school leaders, teachers, school community members, and those who prepare administrators to look within and build bridges between themselves and the communities in which they serve.

In Search for a Theology Capable of Mourning H. Martin Rumscheidt, 2017-10-20 To what extent are the children of Holocaust perpetrators to feel remorseful or responsible for their parents' wrongdoing? Is the yearning by those offspring of Nazi sympathizers for forgiveness justified, or should they separate themselves from their parents or relatives and ignore the history? Such dilemmas have gnawed at theologian Martin Rumscheidt ever since at age eighteen he discovered his father's complicity in using Jewish slave labor at his workplace, IG Farben. He has written and spoken extensively about his journey in search of what he calls a theology of mourning that would preserve his concept of the reality of God and still recognize the reality at times grim reality of life.

Are We All Nazis? Hans Askenasy, 1978 This book is based on the famous experiments conducted by Yale psychologist Stanley Milgram which concluded that given an adjusted controlled environment most of us will act in a manner at total odds with our normal behavior patterns Dr Hans Askenasy agrees with these findings and presents with compelling logic and scholarship a most disquieting view that the Nazis who carried out the murder of six million Jews were neither sadists madmen or monsters Most of us would like to think they were for then the responsibility for the atrocities they committed could be placed upon a special class of criminals or lunatics essentially different from the rest of us Auschwitz could not we like to believe have happened here yet it is psychologically easy to ignore responsibility when one is only an intermediate link in a chain of evil The author concludes that the main cause of large scale destructiveness is not individual criminality but social abnormality a collective madness which we do not fully understand and with which we have not yet come to terms From publisher description World Faiths Insight, 1982
