

1. USING THE EXPANDER UNIT

1.1.1

Before we begin

The Model 100 Expander Unit is designed to slot in behind the main Musician Synthesizer.

Fig. 1.1

Insert the expand unit into the bottom of the Musician Unit as shown in Fig. 1.1.

1.1.2

The A2000 system

Note that with the 100 Synthesizer and 100 Expander Unit then their built-in A2000 network and that both switches have to be ON in order to use both units.

1.1.3

Connections

Fig. 1.2 shows how to connect the two units together and to your amplifier.

Fig. 1.2 Installation of expansion unit

Fig. 1.3

1.1.4

Headphones

In order to monitor the output of both units, use the PHONES jack and 1.2 V.T.L. control on the Model 100 Expander Unit.

1.1.5

The switch on the 1.2 V.T.L. control knob

Fig. 1.4

A2000 is exactly the same as A2000 I except that the gain stage connection is made externally through a switch knob. (The switch, pulled from the 5.7V is the gain control connection for triggering A2000 I and 2.2 V.T.L.)

1.1.6

Experimenting with the two A2000's

In Patch 26 (A2000 Test), the 100 Synthesizer and the 100 Expander Unit are set to produce two different qualities of sound to make it easier to hear the control effects of the four used to connect the two A2000's.

In Patch 26a, the Tenthing key on the keyboard will show that A2000 I is controlling both units.

In Patch 26b, striking a key now will show that both A2000's have separate control of their own parts.

In Patch 26c, in this patch, A2000 I controls both units.

In Patch 26d, in this patch, each A2000 controls its separate part. There is no advantage in this arrangement, as it is of little value except as an experiment.

The master effects

Patch 8 (Delayed Vibrato) shows how you can use A2000 I to induce a delayed vibrato effect into any patch set on the 100 Unit. The main sound (Patch 26, MODEL 100 SYNTHESIZER PATCH B000) is a good patch to try this with.

Beers,2013-06-29 In this volume of the series Human Brain Function Assessment and Rehabilitation we cover the area of how brain function is assessed with behavioral or neuropsychological instruments These assessments are typically conducted by clinical neuropsychologists or behavioral neurologists and so we made an effort to present the somewhat differing approaches to these two related disciplines Clinical neuropsychologists are psychologists who typically utilize standardized tests while behavioral neurologists are physicians who generally assess brain function as part of the clinical neurological evaluation Both approaches have much to offer The basic assumption of neuropsychological assessment is that the brain is the organ of behavior and therefore the condition of the brain may be evaluated with behavioral measures Neuropsychological tests are those measures found by research to be particularly sensitive to alterations in brain function An adequate neuropsychological test is a procedure that can be related to some objective measure of alteration in brain function Over the years these objective measures have changed but generally involve documentation through direct observation of brain tissue or through histological pathological neuroimaging or other laboratory procedures The methods described in the first two volumes of this series describe the neuroimaging procedures that are often used in the validation of neuropsychological tests    Canadiana ,1975    Manufacturers Record ,1928    Industrial World ,1900
