Drug Abuse: Prevention and Treatment Mangai Natarajan, 2017-05-15 Ever since the Shanghai convention in 1909 the threat posed to human well being by drug abuse has led countries around the world to take action to deal with their drug problems There are wide variations in the policies pursued but most countries try to reduce both the supply of and the demand for drugs Unfortunately there is little research consensus on the respective merits of these two approaches or about the best ways to pursue them Consequently control and prevention policies are mostly driven by political considerations economic realities and cultural expectations though research has played an important part in formulating and evaluating treatments for drug addiction This volume reviews studies on drug abuse prevention and treatment strategies under five main areas 1 Reducing supply strategies to control the flow of drugs from production to retail distribution 2 Reducing demand prevention of drug use at all stages of involvement and consumption levels 3 Reducing harm promoting situational risk reduction practices for regular users addicts and recreational users 4 Reducing addiction drug treatment options for various groups in various settings and 5 Drug policies and prescriptions focused on debates about prohibition and legalization

Stem, steam, computational thinking and coding: Evidence-based research and practice in children's development Stamatios Papadakis, Michail Kalogiannakis, Ali Ibrahim Can Gözü, 2023-03-13 The Cambridge Handbook of Applied School Psychology Frank C. Worrell, Tammy L. Hughes, Dante D. Dixon, 2020-09-17 Practice books are often simple how to lists or straightforward recipes and the practitioner still does not know why the activity is related to the outcome they seek In essence they lose how the specifics of the practice are related to the theory of change or the theory of how the problem developed in the first place This leads to practitioners potentially removing crucial elements of best practice procedures when making modifications to tackle new or different problems in an unfamiliar context By understanding the theoretical underpinnings practitioners can better plan for adjustments because they know how the outcomes they seek are informed by the theory Engagingly written and perfect for day to day use this book translates state of the art research and interdisciplinary theory into practical recommendations for those working with children and adolescents

The Health Promoting School Bjarne Bruun Jensen, Stephen Clift, 2005-12-31 This book brings together recent international scholarship on the links between education and health and recent research evidence evaluating the processes and outcomes of health-promoting schools initiatives. The book arises out of the Education and Health in Partnership conference which took place in Egmond aan Zee, the Netherlands, in September 2002. The key aims of the conference were to focus on effective partnership working for health in schools and to consider the evidence base for health-promoting schools programmes. A significant outcome of the conference was the Egmond Agenda which outlines the principal components for success in establishing health-promoting schools. Contributors from across Europe, the United States, South Africa, and Australia present findings from national health-promoting school projects with a particular emphasis on the promotion of mental health. The volume will be of interest to all education and health professionals interested in the contributions of schools in promoting health, empowerment, action competence, and wellbeing of young people.
