De-Westernizing Media Studies James Curran, Myung-Jin Park, 2005-07-05 De Westernizing Media Studies brings together leading media critics from around the world to address central questions in the study of the media How do the media connect to power in society Who and what influence the media How is globalization changing both society and the media

An Anthology of African Cultural Studies, Volume I Keyan G. Tomaselli, Handel Kashope Wright, 2024-10-04 This volume provides an overview of fundamental or grounding themes in African Cultural Studies including the articulation of African cultural studies the issue of Africa's diaspora's African identity and identifications and media studies in Africa and its relationship with cultural studies The first of two volumes the book predominantly pulls together a rich reservoir of previously published articles from Critical Arts South North Cultural and Media Studies mapping a long history of the field that draws from a diverse range of origins and locations especially from within Africa itself The first section of the book addresses how African cultural studies has been called for and explained both as a comprehensive continental and sometimes national discourse and as being in conversation with established global cultural studies The second section addresses the African diaspora and what might be termed diasporic African cultural studies A third principal theme explored is how African identities and identifications are articulated in African cultural studies On spatiality the volume takes a stance on the exclusive continental versus continuity conception of Africa the African diaspora is treated as contributory and its relationship to the continent as problematic while taking up continental Africa as the principal location of African cultural studies In terms of identity Blackness is taken up as the dominant but importantly not exclusive racial identity and identification of African cultural studies and gender and social class are also addressed in novel ways The book ends with an examination of the complex relationship between media studies and cultural studies This book will be a key resource for academics researchers and advanced students of African cultural studies media and cultural studies African studies history politics sociology and social and cultural anthropology while also being of interest to those seeking an introduction to the sub field of African cultural studies

Media Diversity in South Africa Julie Reid, 2021-12-30 This timely book argues that the Global North's research methods and traditional assumptions are not valid to the media landscapes and audiences of the Global South With South Africa as the focus the authors offer a new understanding of media diversity along an audience centred approach Disappointingly research shows that most South African citizens most of whom are economically marginalised are found to experience extremely low levels of media content diversity in their personal media diets The contributing factors are inter related and complex but include the inequitable distribution of media content a lack of African language media and most especially the cost of media access which is unaffordable to many In this book the authors examine what went wrong with post apartheid attempts to democratise the media landscape and why the experienced levels of media diversity by the majority South African audience remain so woefully low While media diversity is usually measured by policymakers sector stakeholders or by market related imperatives this book foregrounds the perspective of the media consumer In doing so traditional media measuring is inverted leading to a more in depth understanding of how ordinary people in the Global South receive media content how much and why The authors offer a holistic analysis of the ineffectuality of key media policymaking processes projects and institutions while also suggesting how these could be transformed to create a more diverse and broadly accessible media landscape The Future of Quality News Journalism Peter

Anderson, Michael Williams, George Ogola, 2013-09-23 In the face of the continuously changing challenges of the digital age it is difficult for quality news journalism to survive on any significant scale if a means for adequately funding it is not available This new study a follow up to 2007 s The Future of Journalism in the Advanced Democracies includes a comparative analysis of possible alternative business models that may save the future of the quality news business across the developed intermediate and developing worlds Its detailed evaluation encompasses also the different ways in which wider key issues are affecting the prospects for quality news as a core ingredient of effectively working democracies It focuses on the United States the United Kingdom South Africa India Kenya and selected parts of the Arab World providing a comprehensive cross cultural survey of different approaches to addressing these various issues To keep the study firmly rooted in the real world the contributors include distinguished practitioners as well as experienced academics Mobile Story Making in an Age
