EU Competition Law, Data Protection and Online Platforms: Data as Essential Facility
Inge Graef, 2016-10-17 All are agreed that the digital economy contributes to a dynamic evolution of markets and competition Nonetheless concerns are increasingly raised about the market dominance of a few key players Because these companies hold the power to drive rivals out of business regulators have begun to seek scope for competition enforcement in cases where companies claim that withholding data is needed to satisfy customers and cut costs This book is the first focus on how competition law enforcement tools can be applied to refusals of dominant firms to give access data on online platforms such as search engines social networks and e-commerce platforms commonly referred to as the gatekeepers of the Internet The question arises whether the denial of a dominant firm to grant competitors access to its data could constitute a refusal to deal and lead to competition law liability under the so called essential facilities doctrine according to which firms need access to shared knowledge in order to be able to compete A possible duty to share data with rivals also brings to the forefront the interaction of competition law with data protection legislation considering that the required information may include personal data of individuals Building on the refusal to deal concept and using a multidisciplinary approach the analysis covers such issues and topics as the following data portability interoperability data as a competitive advantage or entry barrier in digital markets market definition and dominance with respect to data disruptive versus sustaining innovation role of intellectual property regimes economic trade off in essential facilities cases relationship of competition enforcement with data protection law and data related competition concerns in merger cases The author draws on a wealth of relevant material including EU and US decision making practice case law and policy documents as well as economic and empirical literature on the link between competition and innovation The book concludes with a proposed framework for the application of the essential facilities doctrine to potential forms of abuse of dominance relating to data In addition it makes suggestions as to how data protection interests can be integrated into competition policy An invaluable contribution to ongoing academic and policy discussions about how data related competition concerns should be addressed under competition law the analysis clearly demonstrates how existing competition tools for market definition and assessment of dominance can be applied to online platforms It will be of immeasurable value to the many jurists business persons and academics concerned with this very timely subject

The Pluralist Character of the European Economic Constitution Clemens Kaupa,2016-08-25 This monograph intervenes in the long standing and controversial debate on the socio economic orientation of the European Union Arguing that the European economic constitution is pluralist in the sense that it does not favour any specific socio economic paradigm it shows that European law allows the pursuit of very different regulatory projects by the European and the national legislators This pluralist character of the European economic constitution stands in an uncomfortable relationship with the policies currently pursued by the European Union which are often neoliberal in their orientation The book takes an interdisciplinary approach it analyses the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union as interpreted and developed in the case law of the Court of Justice its history and its regulatory purpose in the light of conflicting socio economic paradigms By challenging the orthodoxy the book makes a bold proposition that will likely resonate in both European economic law scholarship and European law in general With the ongoing economic crisis triggering a significant interest in economic questions among legal scholars it is particularly timely and topical Heterarchy in World Politics Philip G. Cerny, 2022-12-30 Heterarchy in World Politics challenges the fundamental framing of international relations and world politics IR theory has always been dominated by the presumption that world politics is at its core a system of states However this has always been problematic challengeable time bound and increasingly anachronistic In the 21st century world politics is becoming increasingly multi nodal and characterized by heterarchy the coexistence and conflict between differently structured micro and meso quasi hierarchies that compete and overlap not only across borders but also across economic financial sectors and social groupings Thinking about international order in terms of heterarchy is a paradigm shift away from the mainstream competing paradigms of realism liberalism and constructivism This book explores how since the mid 20th century the dialectic of globalization and fragmentation has caught states and the interstate system in the complex evolutionary process toward heterarchy These heterarchical institutions and processes are characterized by increasing autonomy and special interest capture The process of heterarchy empowers strategically situated agents especially agents with substantial autonomous resources and in particular economic resources in multi nodal competing institutions with overlapping jurisdictions The result is the decreasing capacity of macro states to control both domestic and transnational political economic processes In this book the authors demonstrate that this is not a simple breakdown of states and the states system it is in fact the early stages of a structural evolution of world politics This book will interest students scholars and researchers of international relations theory It will also have significant appeal in the fields of world politics security studies war studies peace studies global governance studies political science political economy political power studies and the social sciences more generally
