By claiming that it does not necessarily belong to any one mind in particular is inferring then that the self is not in fact a property. Then how can it be said to exist? Thomas Reid (Macquarie, lecture 17) also raises an important objection to Locke's theory of personal identity that seems fairly self-evident to me. We can consider a man as: a child, then in middle age and at old age. If the man in middle age can remember occurrences when he was a young boy, but now that he is an old man can't, then can he be considered a different person from the young boy?

Of Personal Identity Hume

According to Locke the old man is the same as the middle aged one, and the middle aged is the same as the child. Yet there is no continuity of consciousness between the three, any break in memory would render them a 'non-person' if we follow Locke's argument-clearly it is logically inconsistent. David Hume's 'bundle theory' of the self seems to me rather more logically coherent. He claimed that humans tend to think of themselves as the same person as they were, say, 10 years ago; that we believed that although one had evolved over the period in a number of ways that the self had endured.

According to Hume however, this was a mistake, and when examined empirically no more than a practical habit: "I never can catch myself at any time without a perception, and never observe anything but the perception"(TI, vi, p. 251). It is clear, posits Hume, our thoughts and perceptions flow from one idea to the next; so we encounter a 'bundle', or grouping, of perceptions throughout our life but no actual continuous and enduring underlying self- or "I" -as a 'unity of consciousness'.

While there is a stability of perceptions over the short term, and some loose association of experiences, there is no overarching continuity of "I" in reality. Hume agrees that we extend over time in actions, we begin a job and finish it some time later, and that our desires also extend in some sort of continuity over time. Furthermore our physical bodies endure reasonably consistently; we age gradually. This according to Hume is what ultimately defines our sense of personal identity. While Hume's theory of the self is attractive in my view, if anything it doesn't go far

Self and Identity Yoshihisa Kashima, Margaret Foddy, Michael Platow, 2002-04-01 This edited volume outlines the latest meta-theoretical and theoretical contexts of self research Self and Identity examines theoretical accounts of human experience within the contemporary socio-cultural milieu and attempts to answer the question of what it means to be human It provides a clear structure within which to conceptualize contemporary empirical research on self and identity in terms of personal social and symbolic aspects In so doing it identifies the symbolic aspect as an emerging area of contemporary significance Featuring contributions from a distinguished group of scholars and therapists the book is organized into four parts The editors provide section introductions to demonstrate how each chapter relates to the book's overall theme as well as how the chapter authors responded to the editors' charge to go beyond the social cognitive theory of the self Part I describes the current meta-theoretical context of self research the editors' interpretation of the social cognitive approach to the self and an emerging alternative theory the Connectionist Approach Part II highlights personal perspectives on selfhood Part III focuses on social perspectives and Part IV reviews symbolic processes The concluding chapter reviews the book's major themes with overlapping themes and intellectual disputes The book is intended for graduate students and researchers in social and personality psychology interested in self and identity and self research It may also be used as a supplemental text in advanced level courses on self and identity

Personal Identity and Literature Patrick Colm Hogan, 2019-05-17 In Personal Identity and Literature Hogan examines what makes an individual a particular unique self He draws on cognitive and affective science as well as literary works from Walt Whitman and Frederick Douglass to Dorothy Richardson Alice Munro and J M Coetzee His scholarly analyses are also intertwined with more personal reflections on for example his mother's memory loss The result is a work that examines a complex topic by drawing on a unique range of resources from empirical psychology and philosophy to novels films and biographical experiences The book provides a clear systematic account of personal identity that is theoretically strong but also unique and engaging

Personal Identity and Buddhist Philosophy

Mark Siderits, 2017-05-15 Since the publication of Mark Siderits' important book in 2003 much has changed in the field of Buddhist philosophy. There has been unprecedented growth in analytic metaphysics and a considerable amount of new work on Indian theories of the self and personal identity has emerged. Fully revised and updated and drawing on these changes as well as on developments in the author's own thinking, Personal Identity and Buddhist Philosophy second edition explores the conversation between Buddhist and Western Philosophy showing how concepts and tools drawn from one philosophical tradition can help solve problems arising in another. Siderits discusses afresh areas involved in the philosophical investigation of persons including vagueness and its implications for personal identity, recent attempts by scholars of Buddhist philosophy to defend the attribution of an emergentist account of personhood to at least some Buddhists and whether a distinctively Buddhist antirealism can avoid problems that beset other forms of ontological anti-foundationalism.

Hume on the Self and Personal Identity Dan O'Brien, 2022-08-30 This book brings together a team of international scholars to attempt to understand David Hume's conception of the self. The standard interpretation is that he holds a no-self view: we are just bundles of conscious experiences, thoughts, and emotions. There is nothing deeper to us: no core, no essence, no soul. In the Appendix to A Treatise of Human Nature though Hume admits to being dissatisfied with such an account and Part One of this book explores why this might be so. Part Two turns to Books 2 and 3 of the Treatise where Hume moves away from the fiction of a simple self to the complex idea we have of our flesh and blood selves: those with emotional lives, practical goals, and social relations with others. In Part Three connections are traced between Hume and Madhyamaka Buddhism, Husserl and the phenomenological tradition, and contemporary cognitive science.

Objects and Identity Harold W. Noonan, 2013-03-09 Identity has for long been an important concept in philosophy and logic. Plato in his Sophist puts same among those forms which run through all others. The scholastics inherited the idea and the terminology classifying same as one of the transcendentals, i.e. as running through all the categories. The work of Locke and Leibniz made the concept a problematic one. But it is rather recently, i.e. since the importance of Frege has been generally recognized, that there has been a keen interest in the notion formulated by him of a criterion of identity. This at first sight harmless as well as useful has proved to be like a charge of dynamite. The seed had indeed been sown long ago by Euclid. In Book V of his Elements he first gives a useless definition of a ratio. A ratio is a sort of relation between two magnitudes in respect of muchness. But then in definition 5 he answers not the question 'What is a ratio?' but rather 'What is it for magnitudes to be in the same ratio?' and this is the definition that does the work.

Self and Identity Terry Honess, Krysia M. Yardley, 2003-08-16 This volume reflects the renewal of interest in Self and Identity among social scientists. It adopts an interdisciplinary approach to explore different perspectives across the lifespan from the neonate to the elderly adult.

The Identities of Persons Amélie Rorty, 1976-11-15 In this volume thirteen philosophers contribute new essays analyzing the criteria for personal identity and their import on ethics and the theory of action. It presents contemporary treatments of the issues discussed in Personal Identity edited by John Perry.

University of California Press 1975 Problems of the Self Bernard Williams, 1976-03-25 This is a volume of philosophical studies centred on problems of personal identity and extending to related topics in the philosophy of mind and moral philosophy Personal and Moral Identity A.W. Musschenga, A.W. van Haaften, B. Spiecker, M.V. Slors, 2013-03-14 The subject of personal and moral identity is at the centre of interest not only of academic research within disciplines such as philosophy and psychology but also of everyday thinking This is why the Netherlands School for Research in Practical Philosophy and the Institute for Ethics of the Vrije Universiteit in Amsterdam took the initiative to bring together scholars from various disciplines interested in the subject The expert seminar on Personal and Moral Identity took place from 12-14 January 1999 Financial contributions from the Vrije Universiteit the Dutch Scientific Organisation NWO and the Royal Dutch Academy for the Sciences KNAW made the event possible The chapters in this book either go back to papers presented at the seminar or were written afterwards by participants inspired by the discussions that took place during the seminar We are very grateful to Dr Hendrik Hutter for his assistance in editing the texts and making the manuscript camera ready December 2001 The Editors 1 Introduction Albert W Musschenga Although scholars studying the identity of persons usually address diverging issues and have different research agendas there is a growing awareness that one may benefit from insights and results present in other disciplines dealing with that subject This explains the enthusiastic responses to the invitation of the Netherlands School for Research in Practical Philosophy and the Institute for Ethics of the Vrije Universiteit to participate in a seminar on Personal and Moral Identity Personal Identity and Resurrection Georg Gasser, 2010 In Personal Identity and Resurrection leading philosophers and theologians present an indispensable resource for anyone interested in the doctrine of bodily resurrection be they philosophers theologians scholars in religious studies or believers interested in examining their faith Philosophy of Personal Identity and Multiple Personality Logi Gunnarsson, 2009-09-11 This study offers both a full fledged philosophical theory of personal identity and a systematic account of multiple personality Gunnarsson combines the methods of analytic philosophy with close hermeneutic and phenomenological readings of cases from different fields focusing on psychiatric and psychological treatises self help books biographies and fiction Controversies and the Metaphysics of Mind Yaron M. Senderowicz, 2010 Since ancient times metaphysical theories have been shaped by the dialectical relations between metaphysical positions The present book offers a new account of the role of controversies in the evolution of ideas in current metaphysics of mind Part One develops a pragmatic theory of metaphysical controversies that combines Kantian themes and themes from current argumentation theory The theory developed in this book underscores the role of a unique type of dialectical arguments which establish metaphysical positions as controversial relevant alternatives in the evolution of chains of debates in metaphysics In Part Two and Part Three this theory is applied to chains of debates in present day metaphysics of mind which address the problems of consciousness and personal identity One of the contentions defended in this book is that the intellectual history of metaphysics is not a process in which positions are replaced by opposite positions but rather a history of their status as relevant alternatives The book analyzes in detail and demonstrates how progress in contemporary metaphysics of mind consists in a dialectical process through which challenges to extant positions lead to innovative alternatives that are intrinsically relevant to advancing the understanding of the issues under discussion

Personal Identity Ellen Frankel Paul, Fred Dycus Miller, Jeffrey Paul, 2005 What is a person What makes me the same person today that I was yesterday or will be tomorrow Philosophers have long pondered these questions In Plato's Symposium Socrates observed that all of us are constantly undergoing change we experience physical changes to our bodies as well as changes in our manners customs opinions desires pleasures pains and fears Aristotle theorized that there must be some underlying substratum that remains the same even as we undergo these changes John Locke rejected Aristotle's view and reformulated the problem of personal identity in his own way is a person a physical organism that persists through time or is a person identified by the persistence of psychological states by memory These essays written by prominent philosophers and legal and economic theorists offer valuable insights into the nature of personal identity and its implications for morality and public policy

Inquiries in Psychoanalysis: Collected papers of Edna O'Shaughnessy Edna O'Shaughnessy, 2014-10-10 The papers of Edna O'Shaughnessy are among the finest to be found in psychoanalytic writing Her work is unified not so much by its subject matter which is diverse but by her underlying preoccupations including the nature of psychic reality and subjectivity and the psychic limits of endurance and reparation Here a selection of her work edited and with an introduction by Richard Rusbridger is brought together in a collection which demonstrates the contribution that O'Shaughnessy has made to many areas of psychoanalysis from personality organisations the superego psychic refuges and the Oedipus complex to the subject of whether a liar can be psychoanalysed Inquiries in Psychoanalysis is a record of clinical work and thinking over sixty years of psychoanalytic practice with children and adults This wide ranging selection of work will be essential reading for psychoanalysts psychotherapists and students

Personal Identity and Applied Ethics Andrea Sauchelli, 2017-11-10 Soul self substance and person are just four of the terms often used to refer to the human individual Cutting across metaphysics ethics and religion the nature of personal identity is a fundamental and long standing puzzle in philosophy Personal Identity and Applied Ethics introduces and examines different conceptions of the self our nature and personal identity and considers the implications of these for applied ethics A key feature of the book is that it discusses a range of different approaches to personal identity philosophical religious and cross cultural including perspectives from non Western traditions Within this comparative framework Andrea Sauchelli examines the following topics Early views of the soul in Plato Christianity and Descartes The Buddhist no self views and the self as a fiction Confucian ideas of our nature and the importance of self cultivation as constitutive of the self Locke's theory of personal identity as continuity of consciousness and memory and objections by Butler and Reid as well as contemporary critics The theory of animalism and arguments concerning embodied theories of personal identity Practical and narrative theories of personal identity and moral agency Personal identity and issues in applied ethics including abortion organ transplantation and the idea of life after death Implications of life extending technologies for personal identity Throughout the book Sauchelli also considers the views of important recent philosophers such as Sydney Shoemaker Bernard Williams Derek Parfit Marya Schechtman and Christine Korsgaard placing these in helpful historical context Chapter summaries a glossary of key terms and suggestions for further reading make this a refreshing approachable introduction to personal identity and applied ethics It is an ideal text for courses on personal identity that consider both western and non western approaches and that apply theories of personal identity to ethical problems It will also be of interest to those in related subjects such as religious studies and history of ideas
