Technology in Education. Transforming Educational Practices with Technology

Kam Cheong Li, Tak-Lam Wong, Simon K.S. Cheung, Jeanne Lam, Kwan Keung Ng, 2015-02-04 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the International Conference on Technology in Education ICTE 2014 held in Hong Kong in July 2014. The 18 revised full papers and 4 short papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from 45 submissions. The papers are organized in topical sections on application of mobile technologies in e learning technology advancement in e learning systems innovations in e learning pedagogy open education and institution e learning policy What we learn and when we learn it: sensitive periods in development Etienne De Villers-Sidani, Virginia Penhune, 2014-11-21 The impact of training or experience is not the same at all points in development. Children who receive music lessons or learn a second language before age 7-8 are more proficient as adults. Early exposure to drugs or trauma makes people more likely to become addicted or depressed later in life. Rat pups exposed to specific frequencies from 9-13 days post partum show expanded cortical representations of these frequencies. Young birds must hear and copy their native song within 1-2 months of birth or they may never learn it at all. These are examples of sensitive periods, developmental windows where maturation and specific experience interact to produce differential long-term effects on the brain and behavior. While still controversial, evidence for the existence of sensitive periods has grown as has our understanding of the underlying mechanisms of brain plasticity. Behavioral evidence from studies of language psychopathology or vision in humans has been complemented by evidence elucidating molecular, gene, and hormonal mechanisms in animals. It has been proposed that sensitive periods can be both opened and closed by specific experience and that there are multiple overlapping sensitive periods that occur throughout development as functions come on line. It is also likely that experience-dependent behavioral or brain plasticity accrued during one sensitive period can serve as a scaffold on which later experience and plasticity can build. Based on current knowledge, there are a number of broad questions and challenges to be addressed in this domain; these include generating new information about the neurobiological mediators of structural and functional changes, proposing models of brain development that will better predict when sensitive periods should occur and what functions are implicated, investigation of the interaction between experience during a sensitive period and pre-existing individual differences, and the relationship between experience during a sensitive period and on-going experience. The goal of this Research Topic is to bring together scientists in different fields whose work addresses these issues, including animal and human developmental neuroscience, language and cognitive development, education, developmental psychopathology, and sensory neuroscience.
