A Plague of Prisons Ernest Drucker, 2013-05-28 The public health expert and prison reform activist offers meticulous analysis on our criminal justice system and the plague of American incarceration The Washington Post An internationally recognized public health scholar Ernest Drucker uses the tools of epidemiology to demonstrate that incarceration in the United States has become an epidemic a plague upon our body politic He argues that imprisonment originally conceived as a response to the crimes of individuals has become mass incarceration a destabilizing force that damages the very social structures that prevent crime Drucker tracks the phenomenon of mass incarceration using basic public health concepts incidence and prevalence outbreaks contagion transmission potential years of life lost The resulting analysis demonstrates that our unprecedented rates of incarceration have the contagious and self perpetuating features of the plagues of previous centuries Sure to provoke debate and shift the paradigm of how we think about punishment A Plague of Prisons offers a novel perspective on criminal justice in twenty first century America How did America s addiction to prisons and mass incarceration get its start and how did it spread from state to state Of the many attempts to answer this question none make as much sense as the explanation found in this book The Philadelphia Inquirer

Murder Town, USA Yasser Arafat Payne, Brooklynn K. Hitchens, Darryl L. Chambers, 2023-07-14 Far too many poor Black communities struggle with gun violence and homicide The result has been the unnatural contortion of Black families and the inter generational perpetuation of social chaos and untimely death Young people are repeatedly ripped away from life by violence while many men are locked away in prisons In neighborhoods like those of Wilmington Delaware residents routinely face the pressures of violence death and incarceration Murder Town USA is thus a timely ethnography with an innovative structure the authors helped organize fifteen residents formerly involved with the streets and or the criminal justice system to document the relationship between structural opportunity and experiences with violence in Wilmington s Eastside and Southbridge neighborhoods Earlier scholars offered rich cultural analysis of violence in low income Black communities and yet this literature has mostly conceptualized violence through frameworks of personal responsibility or individual accountability And even if acknowledging the pressure of structural inequality most earlier researchers describe violence as the ultimate result of some moral failing a propensity for crime and the notion of helplessness Instead in Murder Town USA Payne Hitchens and Chamber along with their collaborative team of street ethnographers instead offer a radical re conceptualization of violence in low income Black communities by describing the penchant for violence and involvement in crime overall to be a logical resilient response to the perverse context of structural inequality

Roberts,2011-08-25 This innovative volume explores a fundamental issue in the field of sentencing the factors which make a sentence more or less severe All sentencing systems allow courts discretion to consider mitigating and aggravating factors and many legislatures have placed a number of such factors on a statutory footing Yet many questions remain regarding the theory and practice of mitigation and aggravation Drawing on legal and sociological perspectives and examining mitigation and aggravation in various jurisdictions the essays provide practical illustrations of specific factors as well as theoretical justifications After the foreword by Andrew von Hirsch a number of contributors address broad conceptual issues raised at sentencing These contributions are followed by several empirical chapters including an exploration of personal mitigation in English courts The authors are leading scholars from a range of common law jurisdictions including England and Wales the United States Canada Australia New Zealand and South Africa

Exploring the Mandatory Life Sentence for Murder Barry Mitchell, Julian V Roberts, 2012-10-19 Murder is often regarded as both the ultimate and a unique crime and whereas courts are normally given discretion in sentencing offenders for murder the sentence is mandatory indeterminate imprisonment Since the crime and the punishment come as a package deal this book looks at both the legal nature of the offence and at the current operation of the mandatory life sentence Not only does the book adopt a critical approach by assessing the strengths and weaknesses of the status quo it also draws upon comparative material from both common and civil law jurisdictions in an attempt to provide a comprehensive exploration of these issues The need for public confidence in the criminal justice system is particularly acute in the way it deals with the most serious homicides In this book the authors report findings from the first systematic exploration of public attitudes to sentencing murder in this or any other common law jurisdiction The picture of public opinion emerging from this recent large scale nationwide qualitative and quantitative survey funded by the Nuffield Foundation is likely to surprise many and will be of interest to all jurisdictions where the mandatory life sentence for murder has been questioned Issues in Terrorism and Homeland Security CQ Researcher, 2010-09-21 With six new articles covering topics such as terrorism and the internet prosecuting terrorists and homeland security this reader friendly textbook will inspire students whilst helping them to understand the key material in this field
