

Chapter 6: Memory

Module 6.1 Remembering

Memory Processes: Human Memory as an Information Processing System

--Our memory can be conceptualized as an information processing system split into 3 categories:

1. Encoding: Converting information into a form usable in memory

- Relies on different sensory modalities, ie: auditory or visual.

- Sometimes people rely on meaning of incoming information, called semantics

- ie: might remember key terms better if you try to understand what it means rather than memorizing verbatim

2. Storage: Retaining information in memory

- How long something is kept depends on system being used

3. Retrieval: Bringing to mind information in memory

- Where you're accessing conscious information
- Some memories easier to recall than others, but might be dependent on retrieval cues, which are cues associated with original learning that may facilitate retrieval of these memories

Sensory Memory

- Known as briefest storage system that hold memories of sensory impressions for short period of time ie: sights and sounds

- Memory here lasts from fraction of second to 3-4 seconds

- Considered to be first memory system where info passes through our system into memory storage system

Iconic Memory: where mental representations of an image is held for a fraction of a second

Idetic Memory: AKA photographic memory, where people can look at something quickly and recall this information and survey research The first part of the book provides different theoretical perspectives on retrospective reports along with supporting experimental evidence The second part of this volume focuses specifically on retrospective reports of behaviors including recall of the frequency and intensity of physical pain of the number of cigarettes smoked of dietary habits and of child support payments The following sections address the cognitive processes involved in event dating and time estimation and a discussion of the differences between self and proxy reports The final part extends the discussion of autobiographical memories in different directions including the impact of autobiographical memories on individuals assessment of their current life the assessment of social change on the basis of retrospective reports and the issue of collective memories This book an indispensable and timely resource for researchers and students of cognitive psychology as well as to survey methodologists and statisticians demonstrates the considerable progress made in understanding the cognitive dynamics of retrospective reports

No One Is Too Old To Learn Clive Wilson, 2006-06 NEUROANDRAGOGY tells of new advances in brain research Much of this new research confirms what teachers of adults have been saying for years A very good example of this is that children and adults do not learn in the same way The brain of the child does not reach new brain function and true maturity until age 21 and older This is clearly seen when youth use their emotions to decide and not their executive brain as adults do NEUROANDRAGOGY includes research that confirms ways adults can improve their IQ and sharpen their mind even into old age This is possible because brain plasticity still occurs late in life Even more interesting is the fact that we may even be able to experience neurogenesis new brain cell growth through life if we continue to learn new things and live within a brain stimulating environment NEUROANDRAGOGY also makes the case for a possible delay of Alzheimer's disease by the activity of new learning music a new language a new town etc All this contributes to good brain health which improves on life itself

Comprehensive Review of Psychology Vincent Filingeri, 2011-10-03 Comprehensive Review of Psychology CRP was written for students. It covers all of the important areas of psychology found in an introductory psychology course. The areas covered include approaches, methods, biological basis of behavior, sensation, perception, consciousness, learning, memory, cognition, intelligence, motivation, emotion, developmental psychology, personality, health psychology, abnormal psychology, therapies, social psychology, industrial, organizational psychology, and statistics. The reader of the CRP will notice some significant differences between this book and other review books. Comprehensive Review of Psychology fills the gap between those review books that lightly touch on the important concepts and those books that are not complete in both content and subject areas of psychology. Comprehensive Review of Psychology serves as a valuable learning tool for high school, undergraduate, and graduate students. It is an aid in the preparation for the College Board's College Level Examination Program (CLEP), Advanced Placement Examination (AP) in Psychology, and the Educational Testing Service's Graduate Record Examination (GRE). The reader of the CRP will understand psychology better and perform well on any psychology examination.

Psychology Robin M. Kowalski, Drew Westen, 2005 Students often get lost in the details; most will never take a second psychology course; they often have trouble relating the material to their everyday lives. The new Fourth Edition of Kowalski and Westen's Psychology addresses these teaching challenges. The student develops evaluative reasoning through self-discovery for a lifetime of learning. Students are drawn into the material in a way that intrigues and stimulates so they begin to see psychology at work in their daily lives. Like its predecessors, this new edition effectively captures the diversity and breadth of psychology. A complete overview of how human beings think, feel, and behave is included. Psychology is an evolving science which continually addresses and re-addresses the relationship between psychological events and their neural underpinnings, between cognition and emotion, between cultural processes and human evolution, between nature and nurture, and more.
