

Problem 3: Interstellar Dust and Radiation

Name: _____ The Date: _____

Notes: _____

When looking at stars, we observe that interstellar dust has caused stars to appear dimmer at the red and right sides of the "spectrum" than at the blue. This phenomenon is known as interstellar reddening, and shows the unique function of dust.

Interstellar Reddening

1. Why is the color of the light of stars (measured at the left and right boundaries of the "spectrum") different in the case of interstellar reddening?
2. How is interstellar reddening measured in the spectrum of a star? This means that a curve on the left-hand side is compared to a curve on the right-hand side.
3. What would happen if the right and left boundaries were the same, but the curve on the right-hand side was different?
4. What would happen if the curve on the right-hand side was the same, but the curve on the left-hand side was different?
5. What is the effect of interstellar reddening on the color of stars?

Interstellar Dust

1. What is the effect of interstellar dust on the color of stars?
2. If a star is observed at the left and right boundaries, how would the curve on the right-hand side be different?
3. If a star is observed at the left and right boundaries, how would the curve on the left-hand side be different?
