Saving America? Robert Wuthnow, 2009-11-06 On January 29 2001 President George W Bush signed an executive order creating the White House Office of Faith Based and Community Initiatives This action marked a key step toward institutionalizing an idea that emerged in the mid 1990s under the Clinton administration the transfer of some social programs from government control to religious organizations However despite an increasingly vocal ideologically charged national debate a debate centered on such questions as What are these organizations doing How well are they doing it Should they be supported with tax dollars solid answers have been few In Saving America Robert Wuthnow provides a wealth of up to date information whose absence until now has hindered the pursuit of answers Assembling and analyzing new evidence from research he and others have conducted he reveals what social support faith based agencies are capable of providing Among the many questions he addresses Are congregations effective vehicles for providing broad based social programs or are they best at supporting their own members How many local congregations have formal programs to assist needy families How much money do such programs represent How many specialized faith based service agencies are there and which are most effective Are religious organizations promoting trust love and compassion The answers that emerge demonstrate that American religion is helping needy families and that it is more broadly fostering civil society Yet religion alone cannot save America from the broad problems it faces in providing social services to those who need them most Elegantly written Saving America represents an authoritative and evenhanded benchmark of information for the current and the coming debate
