Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 10 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. They were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of 30 minutes of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group remained sedentary. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR and EE were significantly higher at the end of the 10-week period compared to the beginning of the 10-week period. The control group showed no significant change in HR and EE. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light-emitting devices. To avoid this, there are two things the patient should do:
 - Avoid exposure to bright light at night
 - Avoid exposure to bright light during the day
- The end of the day is the best time to sleep. The body's internal clock is set to sleep at night. The body's internal clock is set to sleep at night. The body's internal clock is set to sleep at night.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 connections for One Connection®) will void the warranty. Please, before using any (1) to ensure proper ventilation. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a variety of problems with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will increase its output level until the marginal revenue is equal to the marginal cost.
