The History of the Boer War to the Occupation of Bloemfontein Foster Hugh Egerton Cunliffe, 1904 The History of the Boer War Foster Hugh Egerton Cunliffe, 1904 Daily Report, 1992 Globalizing Confederation Jacqueline Krikorian, Marcel Martel, Adrian Shubert, 2017-11-29 Globalizing Confederation brings together original research from 17 scholars to provide an international perspective on Canada's Confederation in 1867. In seeking to ascertain how others understood, constructed or considered the changes taking place in British North America, Globalizing Confederation unpacks a range of viewpoints including those from foreign governments, British colonies and Indigenous peoples. Exploring perspectives from the Austro-Hungarian Empire, France, Latin America, New Zealand and the Vatican among others, as well as considering the impact of Confederation on the rights of Indigenous peoples during this period, the contributors to this collection present how Canada's Confederation captured the imaginations of people around the world in the 1860s. Globalizing Confederation reveals how some viewed the 1867 changes to Canada as part of a reorganization of the British Empire, while others contextualized it in the literature on colonization more broadly, while still others framed the event as part of a realignment or power shift among the Spanish, French and British empires. While many people showed interest in the Confederation debates, others such as South Africa and the West Indies expressed little interest in the establishment of Canada until it had profound effects on their corners of the global political landscape.

The Times History of the War in South Africa Leopold Stennett Amery, Erskine Childers, Basil Williams, 1902 Development Co-operation Reviews: Canada 1998 OECD, 1998-07-17 The OECD Development Assistance Committee's 1998 review of Canada's development aid programmes and policies The Future of NPT Savita Pande, 1995 Rethinking Khoe and San Indigeneity, Language and Culture in Southern Africa Julie Grant, Keyan G. Tomaselli, 2022-09-19 The San hunter-gatherers and Khoe herders of southern Africa were dispossessed of their land before, during and after the European colonial period which started in 1652. They were often enslaved and forbidden from practicing their culture and speaking their languages. In South Africa under apartheid after 1948 they were reclassified as Coloured, which further undermined Khoe and San culture, forcing them to reconfigure and realign their identities and loyalties. Southern Africa is no longer under colonial or apartheid rule; the San and Khoe, however, continue in the struggle to maintain the remnants of their languages and cultures and are marginalised by the dominant peoples of the region. The San, in particular, continue to command very extensive research attention from a variety of disciplines, from anthropology and linguistics to genetics. They are, however, usually studied as static historical objects, but they are not merely peoples of the past, as is often assumed; they are very much alive in contemporary society with cultural and language needs. This book brings together studies from a range of disciplines to examine what it means to be Indigenous Khoe and San in contemporary southern Africa. It considers the current constraints on Khoe and San identity, language and culture, constantly negotiating an indeterminate social positioning where they are treated as the inconvenient indigenous Usually studied as original anthropos but out of their time this book shifts attention from the past to the present and how the San have negotiated language literacy and identity for coping in the period of modernity It reveals that Afrikaans is indeed an African language incubated not only by Cape Malay slaves working in the kitchens of the early Dutch settlers but also by the Khoe and San who interacted with sailors from passing ships plying the West coast of southern Africa from the 14th century The book re-examines the idea of literacy its relationship to language and how these shape identity The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Critical Arts South North Cultural and Media Studies
