Assessment, Bureaucracy, and Consolidation Donald Parkerson, Jo Ann Parkerson, 2015-06-09 American education has changed dramatically over the last century The small locally controlled school supported by a concerned educational village fostered learning personal accountability patriotism and economic growth for a young nation Today however American schools are typically large consolidated bureaucratic organizations controlled by state and or municipal governments The administration of these schools is hierarchical and corporate in form while its curriculum is oriented toward the needs of the business community Assessment through standardized testing moreover has become the cornerstone of American education Assessment Bureaucracy and Consolidation The Issues Facing Schools Today examines this remarkable transformation in the form and function of education and assesses the problems and possibilities for the future of schools and our nation Additional key features of this book include A clear comprehensive history of the modern American school from the nineteenth century to the present and its impact on teachers students parents and the community at large An Explanation of the impact of bureaucratic organization and the movement toward large schools Critiques of past reform experiments in public education A Placement of the contemporary standardized assessment movement in historical context A reevaluation of the relationship between education and business An evaluation of returning education to locally controlled schools reconnecting educational practitioners with the educational village Biometal Child Development Frank John Ninivaggi,2013 Biometal Child Development Perspectives on Psychology and Parenting coins the novel term biometal to denote the interaction of the actual and gradually integrating body and mind from conception through development over infancy childhood and adolescence This innovative approach presents a vision that recasts descriptions and explanations of child development to capture the inter connectedness of the physical and the emotional experience This book provides the reader with a basic understanding of normal or typical child adolescent and adult psychology that is life positive and energetic Concrete details charted chronologically and thematically of development are outlined stressing both their overlapping biological and psychological significance In addition to a clear and succinct overview of child development in one user friendly volume concrete parenting strategies and numerous examples are given throughout Time tested theories modern problems for example bullying and toxic electronic media use and pragmatic parenting techniques are integrated using current findings from psychology psychiatry and neuroscience Parents grandparents and other caregivers will learn techniques to help parents achieve a working understanding of child development and effective skills for each stage The biometal perspective emphasizes that positive parenting encompasses a diversification of styles that characterize differences among both children and caregivers Biometal Child Development highlights children s emotional development and the all too often neglected role of fathers Bold attention is given to considerations of gender especially fathers as males as well as the emotions of envy greed jealousy and competitiveness as they influence development and parenting How these apparently negative emotions may be recognized and used constructively to enhance development is discussed in detail This new understanding and approach to child development and parenting is a welcome addition to the resources on parenting currently available

Educational Neuroscience, Constructivist Learning, and the Mediation of Learning and Creativity in the 21st Century Layne Kalbfleisch,2015-05-28 The advent of educational neuroscience a transdisciplinary exercise emerging from cognitive neuroscience and educational psychology is the examination of physiological processes that undermine support and enhance the capacities to learn and create The physiological underpinnings of learning and creativity each impact human ability and performance and mediate the processes of becoming educated expert and valued Evidence of learning provides support to an ongoing canon process system field or domain while evidence of creativity results in an elaboration or departure from an ongoing canon process system field or domain Educational neuroscience extends a challenge to scholars from multiple contexts to engage in the characterization and exploration of human ability and performance in these realms The role of context both environmental and interoceptive is an integral part of efforts in educational neuroscience and in theories of constructivist learning to contribute ecologically valid insight to the pragmatic processes of learning and creativity Examination at this level of specificity is vital to our ability to educate and support human potential in the 21st century This Research Topic examines the neural basis of cognitive states and processes that influence knowledge and skill acquisition tied to the demonstration of human ability and performance across individual differences and in multiple contexts including STEM learning and the arts
