

Exploring nuclear decay – Alpha Decay

Go to PhET Simulations. Find and open the sim called Alpha Decay.
http://phet.colorado.edu/simulations/sims.php?sim=Alpha_Decay

- Click on 'Run Now' to start the simulation. When the simulation opens click on the 'Single Atom' Tab.

After the simulation begins, follow the instructions below and answer the questions that follow each instruction.

- Click on 'Run Now' and Watch the Polonium-211 (^{211}Po) nucleus until it decays. Click on the 'Reset Nucleus' button and watch it again. Repeat this at least 8 more times. List at least 3 observations that compare the ^{211}Po nucleus before and after it decays.
- Click on the 'Reset Nucleus' button and run the program again, but this time click the 'Pause' button  immediately after the decay so you can look at the particle that flies out of the nucleus. What is this particle made of?
- Why does the mass number change from 211 to 207 after the polonium nucleus decays?
- Why does the polonium (Po) become lead (Pb) after a decay? (You may have to look at a Periodic Table to determine this.)
- Look at the 'Decay Time Chart' across the top of the screen. It should display the decayed nuclei of all of the trials you ran. Does there appear to be any pattern for the decay times that are represented on the chart? What does this tell you about the decay of a specific nucleus having a predictable pattern or being random?
- Now click on 'Multiple Atoms' and quickly empty the Bucket o' Polonium by rapidly clicking the 'Add 10' button 4 to 6 times. Watch the nuclei decay and watch the Decay Chart across the top. List 3 observations concerning the decay. Print out the screen if possible or draw what the Decay Chart across the top looks like.
