Improving Palliative Care for Cancer National Research Council, Commission on Life Sciences, Institute of Medicine, National Cancer Policy Board, 2001-06-15 It is innately human to comfort and provide care to those suffering from cancer particularly those close to death Yet what seems self evident at an individual personal level has by and large not guided policy at the level of institutions in this country There is no argument that palliative care should be integrated into cancer care from diagnosis to death But significant barriers attitudinal behavioral economic educational and legal still limit access to care for a large proportion of those dying from cancer and in spite of tremendous scientific opportunities for medical progress against all the major symptoms associated with cancer and cancer death public research institutions have not responded In accepting a single minded focus on research toward cure we have inadvertently devalued the critical need to care for and support patients with advanced disease and their families This report builds on and takes forward an agenda set out by the 1997 IOM report Approaching Death Improving Care at the End of Life which came at a time when leaders in palliative care and related fields had already begun to air issues surrounding care of the dying That report identified significant gaps in knowledge about care at the end of life and the need for serious attention from biomedical social science and health services researchers Most importantly it recognized that the impediments to good care could be identified and potentially remedied The report itself catalyzed further public involvement in specific initiatives mostly pilot and demonstration projects and programs funded by the nonprofit foundation community which are now coming to fruition

Taylor, Jr.,2012-04-23 Progressives need a balanced federal budget more than Conservatives because they believe that government has an important role to play in modern life Lack of a long term plan to move toward a sustainable budget crowds out short term Progressive priorities infrastructure spending green technology education and needed governmental interventions in the short term to support and improve our weak economy The federal budget is unsustainable For all the bluster of the debt ceiling debate the plan passed so far does not address the changes most obviously needed if we are to ever have a balanced budget again an increase in taxes and the next steps on health reform to address the biggest driver of our long term budget deficit health care costs Slowing the rate at which health care costs are growing is a necessary but not a sufficient condition to developing a long range balanced budget You should ask any politician saying they think a balanced budget is a priority one question what is your health reform plan Without one they have no hope of achieving their goal This book offers progressives solutions to health care reform and a balanced budget and will be of interest to academics students and educated readers interested in politics public policy and government finance
