

27-2 Roundworms

Members of the phylum Nematoda, also known as roundworms, are among the most numerous of all animals. It is difficult to imagine how many live around us. A single rotting apple can contain as many as 90,000 roundworms. A cubic meter of garden soil can be home to more than a million!

What Is a Roundworm?

Roundworms are slender, unsegmented worms with tapering ends. They range in size from microscopic to a meter in length. Most species of roundworms are free-living, inhabiting soil, salt flats, aquatic sediments, and water, from polar regions to the tropics. Many others are parasitic and live in hosts that include almost every kind of plant and animal.

Like flatworms, roundworms develop from three germ layers. However, roundworms have a body cavity between the endoderm and mesoderm tissues. Because this cavity is lined only partially with tissue derived from the mesoderm, it is called a pseudocoelom (saw-doh-SHEE-um), which means “false coelom.” Observe the pseudocoelom in Figure 27-7.

Also, unlike most flatworms, roundworms have a digestive tract with two openings. This body plan is often called a tube-within-a-tube. The inner tube is the digestive tract, and the outer tube is the body wall. This arrangement makes digestion in roundworms very different from that in flatworms because food moves in one direction through the digestive tract. Any material in the food that cannot be digested leaves through the anus. The anus is the posterior opening of the digestive tract.

 Roundworms are unsegmented worms that have pseudocoeloms and digestive systems with two openings—a mouth and an anus.

2 INSTRUCT

What Is a Roundworm?

Use Visuals

Figure 27-7 Direct students' attention to the cross section of a roundworm. Then, have them compare this cross section with the one shown in Figure 27-1 on page 683. Ask: What is the main difference between the body plan of a flatworm and the body plan of the roundworm? (In a flatworm, there is no space between the endoderm tissue and the mesoderm tissue. In the roundworm, there is a space between those two tissues.) Point out that this space, or body cavity, is the pseudocoelom of the roundworm. Ask: What is “false” about a pseudocoelom? (A pseudocoelom is “false” because it is only partially lined with mesoderm tissue.) What part of the pseudocoelom is not lined with mesoderm tissue? (The inner boundary of the cavity)
