The Routledge Handbook of the Bioarchaeology of Human Conflict Christopher Knüsel, Martin Smith, 2013-12-17 If human burials were our only window onto the past what story would they tell Skeletal injuries constitute the most direct and unambiguous evidence for violence in the past Whereas weapons or defenses may simply be statements of prestige or status and written sources are characteristically biased and incomplete human remains offer clear and unequivocal evidence of physical aggression reaching as far back as we have burials to examine Warfare is often described as senseless and as having no place in society Consequently its place in social relations and societal change remains obscure The studies in The Routledge Handbook of the Bioarchaeology of Human Conflict present an overview of the nature and development of human conflict from prehistory to recent times as evidenced by the remains of past people themselves in order to explore the social contexts in which such injuries were inflicted A broadly chronological approach is taken from prehistory through to recent conflicts however this book is not simply a catalogue of injuries illustrating weapon development or a narrative detailing progress in warfare but rather provides a framework in which to explore both continuity and change based on a range of important themes which hold continuing relevance throughout human development aim of this thesis is to offer a politico theoretical explanation for the historical development of the New Left and why the red decade between 1967 and 1976 77 ended so abruptly Within this context the thesis will focus on the Maoist K Gruppen and particular emphasis will be placed on the Marxistische Gruppe which defied the general decline of West Germany s New Left and developed into its largest organisation during the 1980s Furthermore the Red Cells movement will be analysed from which both currents emerged in the wake of the student movement In conclusion this thesis will reveal that the influence of politico theoretical aspects on the historical development of the New Left has been given too little consideration and that the New Left s fate cannot be adequately explained by external factors but demands the consideration of the very development of theories and the practical conclusions organisations reached regarding their social economic and cultural circumstances This work will be the first to provide an insight into the potential of such a theoretical explanation for an understanding of the specific developments of the post 1968 West German New Left

The Roman and Byzantine Graves and Human Remains Joseph L. Rife, 2012-06-01 This study describes and interprets the graves and human remains of Roman and Byzantine date recovered by excavation between 1954 and 1976 in several locales around the Isthmian Sanctuary and the succeeding fortifications. This material provides important evidence for both death and life in the Greek countryside during the Late Roman to Early Byzantine periods. Examination of burial within the local settlement, comparative study of mortuary behavior and analysis of skeletal morphology, ancient demography, oral health and paleopathology all contribute to a picture of the rural Corinthians over this transitional era as interactive, resilient and modestly innovative. Winner of the 2012-2013 CAMWS Outstanding Publication Award.
