Population And Communities Chapter Test:

Modeling Populations of Adaptive Individuals Steven F. Railsback, Bret C. Harvey, 2020-05-19 This book offers a new theory for modeling how organisms make tradeoff decisions and how these decisions affect both individuals and populations Tradeoff decisions or behaviors are those that are optimize survival and include behaviors like foraging and reproduction Existing theories have not painted a complete picture of tradeoff decisions because they only observe how the decisions of an individual affect them rather than how individuals impact and are impacted by the behavior of their communities The authors theory which they call state and prediction based theory uses individual based models since these models show the complex ways that organisms relate to their environment The authors broader approach one that integrates behavior and population dynamics allows ecologists to see how individuals make adaptive tradeoff decisions In simpler terms this theory does not assume as the previous models do that future conditions are fixed known and unaffected by the behavior of others Instead the authors assume individuals make decisions like people do which is by forecasting future conditions using approximation to make good decisions and updating their choices as conditions change
