

as the change that Americans needed to correct the mistakes made by the Carter regime. Reagan earned the trust and respect of the citizens through his candid honesty. He portrayed courageous convictions and focused on pursuing what he and his followers considered to be right. For example, "he took responsibility for the Iran Arms and Contra Aid controversy in 1987, thereby regaining the trust of the public" (Bell 66-74).

Unlike most former presidents of the US, Reagan showed his expertise in managing the country through effective delegation of tasks and authority (Greenstein 220-230). He believed that empowering members of his administration would ensure successful implementation of national policies. Thus, he established effective teams that worked independently, thereby improving the effectiveness of his administration.

If I were the President

As the president, I would use transformational leadership to lead the country. A transformational leader is an individual who is capable of guiding, directing, and influencing others to achieve the desired change (Bonnici 78). Unlike charismatic leadership, transformational leadership does not require special traits and behaviors, which some leaders might lack. Transformational leadership would facilitate power sharing through consultations and widespread participation in my administration. This would ensure effective leadership by promoting responsiveness and accountability among administrators.

Conclusion

Having charisma is a fundamental requirement for being a charismatic leader. This involves having charismatic traits such as trust, a clear vision, excellent communication skills, and ability to delegate authority effectively. President Ronald Reagan had these traits and used them to lead the country. As a result, he was considered a charismatic leader who had extraordinary expertise in leadership.

Dorsey, 2008-03-26 Successful presidential leadership depends upon words as well as deeds In this multifaceted look at rhetorical leadership twelve leading scholars in three different disciplines provide in depth studies of how words have served or disserved American presidents At the heart of rhetorical leadership lies the classical concept of prudence practical wisdom that combines good sense with good character From their disparate treatments of a range of presidencies an underlying agreement emerges among the historians political scientists and communication scholars included in the volume To be effective they find presidents must be able to articulate the common good in a particular situation and they must be credible on the basis of their own character Who they are and what they can do are thus twin pillars of successful rhetorical leadership Leroy G. Dorsey introduces these themes and David Zarefsky picks them up in looking at the historical development of rhetorical leadership within the office of the presidency Each succeeding chapter then examines the rhetorical leadership of a particular president often within the context of a specific incident or challenge that marked his term in office Chapters dealing with George Washington John Adams Thomas Jefferson Theodore Roosevelt Woodrow Wilson Franklin Roosevelt Dwight Eisenhower Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton offer the specifics for a clearer understanding of how rhetoric serves leadership in the American presidency This book provides an indispensable addition to the literature on the presidency and in leadership studies Lessons from the Top Gavin Esler, 2012-08-30 Great leaders have always understood the power of stories Through the stories they tell the most successful leaders educate persuade and bring about change but we rarely have the background knowledge to explore how they do so In this hugely insightful guide to getting to the top leading journalist Gavin Esler presents first hand knowledge of the secrets of those who achieve power based on over thirty years experience interviewing world famous figures from Bill Clinton to Angelina Jolie Introducing the questions every leader must answer and the elements that the best stories must contain Esler explains how

Quarterly Essay 3 The Opportunist Guy Rundle, 2001-10-01 In the third Quarterly Essay Guy Rundle comes to grips with John Howard the prime minister who on the eve of an election seems to have turned round his political fortunes by spurning refugees and writing blank cheques for America's War on Terror This is a brilliant account of John Howard's dominant ideas his concerted dreaming with its emphasis on unity and national identity that reveals him to be the most reactionary PM we have ever had the only political leader who would allow ideas like those of One Nation to dominate the mainstream of Australian politics in order to improve his political chances Rundle puts Howard in the context of the economic liberalism he shares with his colleagues and opponents and the conservative social ideology that sets him apart It is a complex portrait in a radical mirror which relates John Howard to everything from Menzies's forgotten people to the inadvertent glamour of the government's antidrug advertising It is also a plea for right thinking people of every political persuasion to resist the call to prejudice and reaction A portrait of a political opportunist who is also a sincere reactionary putting back the clock because he believes in it but also fanning the whirlwind of unreason in order to save his political skin Peter Craven Introduction The coincident occurrence of the asylum seeker confrontation and the attack on the U S has made visible the most dangerous and damaging thing he has done to the Australian polity and that is to deepen contempt for such protection as we did have from unbridled executive power mass hysteria the rush to surrender our freedoms and offer them up on the alter of crisis
