Andrew Pepper,2020-12-02 Artists have been exploring the spatial conceptual and three dimensional qualities of holography for over fifty years Why then is there so little sustained critical pressure placed on this process methodology and mode of visualisation which underpins the developing practice In 1994 pioneering British artist Margaret Benyon in her doctoral thesis posed the question How is Holography Art and offered a range of answers by applying critical pressure to her considerable work in the field Over 25 years later we have used Benyon s investigation as an invitation to ask more questions This Special Issue in Arts brings together artists working with holography as well as curators and long term expert observers with an interest in the medium to open up a more comprehensive discussion They have reflected on the development of their work and its place within a cultural and critical framework The curators and observers have employed a wider lens from their standpoints outside the field but this is located firmly within current cultural discussions There are more questions and certainly a need to increase the critical pressure around why holography could be one of the most significant ways of seeing and representing worlds and ideas today We are surrounded by terrible art painting sculpture print photography performance digital moving image and holography has undoubtedly contributed to the visual flotsam clogging our vision This publication aims to identify the importance of critical conversation and the place holography holds within our current and complex media landscape Advanced Condition Monitoring and Fault Diagnosis of Electric Machines Irfan,

 Ethnographic museums have been fundamentally reshaped during recent decades acknowledging contemporary cultural practices recognising aesthetic expressions and encouraging the active involvement of indigenous participants in all processes of museum creation and administration Despite these efforts however this book reveals how the institution of the museum as such continues to be haunted by its previous restrictive ideas of the other while talking about the self It investigates the ethnographic object and its performance in museum displays departing from notions of haunting as expressed by Jacques Derrida and Avery Gordon to think about presence and absence and the tension between object and text The book argues that the tension between satisfying and dissatisfying informational needs is essential to the museum context and that the objects on display have to be arranged in familiar patterns to be recognisable as material knowledge As such the ethnographic museum can be nothing else but a monument to its own history and the ethnographic object remains trapped by the limitations of its category that is inseparable from the museum setting Art Papers Magazine ,2006
