Physics and the Environment Kyle Forinash,2017-07-05 Physics and the Environment directly connects the physical world to environmental issues that the world is facing today and will face in the future It shows how the first and second laws of thermodynamics limit the efficiencies of fossil fuel energy conversions to less than 100% while also discussing how clever technologies can enhance overall performance It also extensively discusses renewable forms of energy their physical constraints and how we must use science and engineering as tools to solve problems instead of opinion and politics Dr Kyle Forinash takes you on a journey of understanding our mature and well developed technologies for using fossil fuel resources and how we are unlikely to see huge gains in their efficiency as well as why their role in climate change ought to be an argument for their replacement sooner rather than later He also discusses the newest technologies in employing renewable resources and how it is important to understand their physical constraints in order to make a smooth transition to them An entire chapter is dedicated to energy storage a core question in renewable energy as well as another chapter on the technical issues of nuclear energy The book ends with a discussion on how no environmental solution no matter how clever from a technical aspect will succeed if there are cheaper alternative even if those alternatives have undesirable features associated with them

A Diversity of Pathways Through Science Education Yann Shiou Ong,Timothy Ter Ming Tan,Yew-Jin Lee,2024-06-18 This book presents the work of academics who contributed their work at the International Science Education Conference ISEC 2021 in alignment with the conference theme 20 20 Vision for Science Education Research Collectively the chapters aim to evoke intellectual dialogues on current and future trends in science education It features chapters that are grouped thematically into three sections Questions and Questioning in Science STEM education Developing Science Teaching and Assessment and History Philosophy and Sociology of Science Engineering and Informal Learning Through the various sections the book presents empirical studies in science and engineering classrooms or laboratories puts forward a framework for problem based learning provides an account of a prominent scientist's efforts in promoting practical science through analysis of historical documents and uncovers trends in informal science learning space research through a review of literature. Each section is introduced by a commentary with further insights and thought provoking questions on ideas raised in the chapters. The book also includes a Notes to Our Future Colleagues section in each chapter which presents readers with a collective vision for the state of science education research in the year 2050. Philosophy and Theory of Artificial Intelligence 2017 Vincent C. Müller, 2018-08-28 This book reports on the results of the third edition of the premier conference in the field of philosophy of artificial intelligence PT AI 2017 held on November 4-5 2017 at the University of Leeds UK. It covers advanced knowledge on key AI concepts including complexity computation creativity embodiment representation and superintelligence cutting edge ethical issues such as the AI impact on human dignity and society responsibilities and rights of machines as well as AI threats to humanity and AI safety and cutting edge developments in techniques to achieve AI including machine learning neural networks dynamical systems. The book also discusses important applications of AI including big data analytics expert systems cognitive architectures and robotics. It offers a timely yet very comprehensive snapshot of what is going on in the field of AI especially at the interfaces between philosophy cognitive science ethics and computing. Biosemiotic Medicine Farzad Goli, 2016-08-02 This book presents an interpretation of pharmaceutical surgical and psychotherapeutic interventions based on a univalent metalanguage biosemiotics. It proposes that a metalanguage for the physical mental social and cultural aspects of health and medicine could bring all parts and aspects of human life together and thus shape a picture of the human being as a whole made up from the heterogeneous images of the vast variety of sciences and technologies in medicine discourse. The book adopts a biosemiotics clinical model of thinking because similar to the ancient principle of alchemy tam ethice quam physice everything in this model is physical as much as it is mental. Signs in the forms of vibrations molecules cells words images reflections and rites conform cultural mental physical and social phenomena. The book decodes healing dealing with health illness and therapy by emphasizing the first person experience as well as objective events. It allows readers to follow the energy information flows through and between embodied minds and to see how they form physiological functions such as our emotions and narratives.

Towards a Framework for Representational Competence in Science Education Kristy L. Daniel, 2018-06-20 This book covers the current state of thinking and what it means to have a framework of representational competence and how such theory can be used to shape our understanding of the use of representations in science education assessment and instruction. Currently there is not a consensus in science education regarding representational competence as a unified theoretical framework. There are multiple theories of representational competence in the literature that use differing perspectives on what competence means and entails. Furthermore dependent largely on the discipline language discrepancies cause a potential barrier for merging ideas and pushing forward in this area. While a single unified theory may not be a realistic goal there needs to be strides taken toward working as a unified research community to better investigate and interpret representational competence An objective of this book is to initiate thinking about a representational competence theoretical framework across science educators learning scientists practitioners and scientists As such we have divided the chapters into three major themes to help push our thinking forward presenting current thinking about representational competence in science education assessing representational competence within learners and using our understandings to structure instruction
