Nyc Schools Violence And Doe Report:

Education and Incarceration Erica R. Meiners, Maisha T. Winn, 2014-07-16 The United States of America is in possession of the largest prison population in the world with 2.3 million people currently behind bars. This number is predominantly and disproportionately made up of communities of colour and poverty. Between 1987 and 2007 the U.S. prison population tripled, the direct result of various tough on crime public policies. Organizers and scholars use the term prison industrial complex (PIC) to name the structure that encompasses the expanding economic and political contexts of the detention and corrections industry in the USA. The PIC is a network that sutures capital, communities, and the State to a permanent punishment economy. The term the PIC aims to capture the range of material and ideological forces that shape the growth of detention, the political and lobbying power of the corrections officers' unions, the framing of prisons and jails as a growth industry in the context of deindustrialization, the production and sales of technology and security required to maintain and expand the state of incarceration, and the naturalization of isolation as a logical response to harm. Education and Incarceration highlights the significance of centering agency and autonomy and documents scholars who work to be accountable to justice movements and communities, not simply to academic disciplines or to research. Additionally, as emerging scholars committed to challenging the PIC, these authors struggle to build multi-layered analytic and material tools for resistance within and beyond the walls of schools, jails, and prisons. This book provides snapshots of practices in motion: activist scholars working to engage to be accountable to families, communities, and larger justice movements, and to build abolition democracies. This book was originally published as a special issue of Race, Ethnicity and Education. THE EDUCATION AND DECONSTRUCTION OF MR. BLOOMBERG Sally A. Friedman, 2010-07-12 This is an exposé detailing New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg's education and construction policies between 2002 and 2009 inclusive. It covers all major education issues: schools, chancellor, school budget, grading of the schools, reducing class sizes, small charter and culturally themed schools, standardized testing, school safety, overcrowding, and mayoral control; and all major real estate development issues: rezoning, ULURP, self-certification, various fatal construction accidents and disasters, affordable housing, lack of construction law enforcement, and the large projects that characterized the administration. This book features a list of abbreviations and a comprehensive index in the back. A page of the Introduction, p. 11, is crucial for understanding references made throughout the book. Therefore, it is reproduced below. Making himself available to parents: The mayor performed the important tasks of negotiating with the unions, securing funding from the higher powers, and making public relations appearances when there was good news to report. I have observed that there were three recurring themes in Mr. Bloomberg's modus operandi in both Education and Real Estate Development. Theme 1: He was overly optimistic. As his various education initiatives and construction projects progressed, he routinely threw around and changed numbers on standardized test scores, graduation rates, school openings, school crime rates, construction costs, creation of jobs, and affordable housing units among others and sometimes even distorted facts outright Theme 2 Time after time Mr Bloomberg asked for input from the community or purported to on new school openings and on construction of schools and other projects but usually ended up hiring his cronies and ignored the community's wishes Theme 3 He took advantage of legal loopholes or skirted around the law to forge ahead with his agenda His agenda was to acquire power Why else did he take control of the schools and overturn term limits It was not for the money In November 2009 Mr Bloomberg won his third term election bid by a narrow margin mostly because he was still viewed as a stronger candidate than the opposing one His power and popularity were waning however rocked by various investigations in recent years including a slush fund scandal and corruption and sloppiness in construction that led to fatal accidents that resulted in the termination of decades long unethical practices Further he was accused of being involved in various conflicts of interest and of being hypocritical on environmental and health issues Two farmyard clichés and one generic cliché also aptly describe many occurrences during the Bloomberg administration between 2002 and 2009 Cliché 1 Just another case of the fox guarding the henhouse Cliché 2 Closing the barn door after the horses have already fled Cliché 3 Do as I say not as I do The above themes and clichés are so common in my text that I refer to their generic names i.e. I will use the blog style for example File under Theme 1 or File under Cliché 2 when providing evidence of same Enjoy Strategy Report of New York City Narcotics Control Task Force United States.
