American Agriculturist ,1924 The Heartsease library ,1903 Full of Hope and Fear Margaret Bonfiglioli,James Munson,2014-07-24 The First World War has survived as part of our national memory in a way no previous war has ever done This collection of letters which lay untouched for almost ninety years allows a unique glimpse into the war as experienced by one family at the time transporting us back to an era which is now slipping tantalizingly out of living memory The Slaters the family at the heart of these letters lived in Oxford Like most families they were both typical and unique Gilbert the father of the family had been head of Ruskin College in Oxford and during the war found work as the first Professor of Indian Economics in Madras His wife Violet grew to detest the war and became an increasingly vocal pacifist as the slaughter continued Owen their eldest son a schoolboy in 1914 was fighting in France by war s end In the letters they wrote to each other and their friends at this time we see how the war increasingly impacted upon each of their lives and the life of the world around them rationing Violet s increasing involvement in radical politics the deaths of friends the fear of Zeppelin raids when in London the endless discussions between Violet and Gilbert about how to keep their son out of the trenches and the growth of Owen from schoolboy to soldier serving as a junior officer on the Western Front Above all in their privacy and immediacy their inconsistencies and false hopes these letters bring us as near as we can ever be to understanding what people thought feared and hoped for during these momentous years Translating Home in the Global South Isabel C. Gómez,Marlene Hansen Esplin,2023-11-30 This collection explores the relationships between acts of translation and the movement of peoples across linguistic cultural and physical borders centering the voices of migrant writers and translators in literatures and language cultures of the Global South To offer a counterpoint to existing scholarship this book examines translation practices as forms of both home building and un homing for communities in migration Drawing on scholarship from translation studies as well as eco criticism decolonial thought and gender studies the book s three parts critically reflect on different dimensions of the intersection of translation and migration in a diverse range of literary genres and media Part I looks at self translation collaboration and cocreation as modes of expression born out of displacement and exile Part II considers radical strategies of literary translation and the threats and opportunities they bring in situations of detention and border policing Part III looks ahead to the ways in which translation can act as a powerful means of fostering responsibility solidarity and community in building an inclusive multilingual public sphere even in the face of climate crisis This dynamic volume will be of particular interest to students and scholars in translation studies migration and mobility studies postcolonial studies and comparative literature The Introduction of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution NonCommercial NoDerivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 International license 4 0 license The Leghorn World ,1924 Argentina Noir Cynthia Schmidt-Cruz,2019-02-14 An engaging and insightful guide to Argentine crime fiction since 2000 Argentina Noir offers a guide to Argentine crime
