Zealand and the USA reveal that traditional individualist approaches to promoting environmental behaviour epitomised by information campaigns and economic incentives cannot trigger the deep behavioural changes required to materially improve our response to climate change Only by marshalling the forces of thousands and eventually millions of citizens can we manage to reach environmental sceptics reinforce political action and create the new social norms that are sorely needed in our local and global response to climate change This book will be of great relevance to scholars and policy makers with an interest in climate change politics and governance community engagement and sustainable development World Aviation Buyer's Guide ,1990 Indexes United States.
