

A Scene Analysis in Bonnie and Clyde Film

Scene Analysis

The scene in Arthur Penn's film Bonnie and Clyde where Bonnie and Clyde share their first kiss is a perfect representation of a complete scene with cinematic meaning to the theme of the movie itself. The scene begins with a medium shot of Bonnie arranging her necklace in the mirror. She sings a song from a movie that she and Clyde had just viewed. She recites the lines, "We're in the money, we're in the money". Bonnie's singing causes Clyde to look at her, and her words prompt Clyde to ask her if she would rather have a rich man to look after her, than a thief who can't give her the care she needs. Bonnie insists that she doesn't want rich man, and Clyde's lifestyle is fine for her. Clyde kisses her, but before they go further, Clyde backs away and tells Bonnie that he isn't a "lover boy".

For this sequence of shots to be considered a scene, there needs to be a clear beginning and end. Both the beginning and the end of the scene are clearly marked by fade-ins and fade-outs- classic methods of jumping from scene to scene. This scene also is its own mark in time; the scene before and the scene after are at different times than this scene. The break in time makes this particular sequence stand out as its own individual scene.

The cinematography and the mise en scène of this scene enhance the deeper meaning of Bonnie and Clyde- Clyde's struggle with his sexuality. The lighting in this scene is constant; even before Clyde pulls down the shade over the window, the lighting is dark and dull. The lighting comes from a single source, and the scene is lit in a way that
