Energetic Food Webs John C. Moore,Peter C. de Ruiter,2012-05-31 In ecosystems with many species food webs form highly complex networks of resource consumer interactions At the same time the food web as itself needs sufficient resources to develop and survive So in fact food web ecology is about how natural resources form the basis of biological communities in terms of species richness and abundances as well as how species are organised in communities on the basis of the resource availability and use The central theme of this book is that patterns in the utilisation of energy result from the trophic interactions among species and that these patterns form the basis of ecosystem stability The authors integrate the latest work on community dynamics ecosystem energetics and stability and in so doing attempt to dispel the categorisation of the field into the separate subdisciplines of population community and ecosystem ecology Energetic Food Webs represents the first attempt to bridge the gap between the energetic and species approaches to ecology

Soils as a Key Component of the Critical Zone 6 Philippe Lemanceau, Manuel Blouin, 2018-11-26 Soils are environments where a myriad of different organisms evolve determining a series of functions which translate into ecosystem services that are essential for humanity Improving our understanding of these organisms their biodiversity and their interactions with each other as well as with the environment represents a major challenge Soil ecology has its roots in natural history The ecological approach focused on soils is notable for integrating at least partially the contributions of soil sciences physics chemistry biochemistry By renewing methods of observation and analysis especially molecular ones and through the development of experimental approaches and modeling an ecology connected with other soil based disciplines emerges and begins to influence aboveground ecology Soils as a Key Component of the Critical Zone 6 presents an updated vision of knowledge and research in soil ecology as a complex system from the best French specialists

Soil Nematodes of Grasslands in Northern China Qi Li, Wenju Liang, Xiaoke Zhang, Mohammad

Mahamood, 2017-08-11 Soil Nematodes of Grasslands in Northern China presents research on China's temperate grasslands providing the findings and results of a large field survey along a transect across the northern temperate grassland. It examines nematode distribution patterns along the transect from trophic group and family to genus level, also evaluating their relationship with climatic conditions, plant biomass, and soil parameters. The book then presents detailed taxonomy information of nematodes to genus or species level, providing keen insights into nematode diversity along the grassland transect in north China. Final sections review the advances and perspectives for the research of soil ecology on soil nematodes in China, including recent major discoveries of soil microbial diversity and eco function during this field survey. This work will help researchers predict the impact of global change drivers on below ground soil biota and better understand the functioning and services they provide in terrestrial ecosystems. Features previously unavailable information on nematode diversity and distribution along a large geographic region of China. Describes the relationship of nematode assemblage composition with climatic conditions, plant, and soil characteristics. Covers nematode genera and species descriptions along the grassland transect.
