Rubric For Urban And Rural Communities:

Urban Development in China under the Institution of Land Rights Jieming Zhu, 2019-09-17 How have the development and redevelopment of China's cities since the early 1950s transformed the settlements and fortunes of a fifth of the world's population? Rapid urbanization since the 1980s has changed the nation from a rural society to an urban one, marking it as one of the most significant transformations in history. As a country with severe land scarcity, land resources are intensively contested for during urbanization under the new regime of marketization. This book focuses on the impact of the institution of land rights that have transitioned from private ownership to socialist state ownership and subsequently to public land leasing in the urban domain and to collective ownership in rural areas. In the context of defining the relationship between the state and the market, the gradualist transition of land rights gives rise to intriguing processes of place making. The elaboration of these processes will engage several revealing conceptual notions: land as a means of production, land commodification, ambiguous land rights, incomplete land rights trading, land use rights for land development, rights institutional uncertainty, land rent seeking and dissipating, local developmental state, danwei enterprises, and more. The newly created landed interests are embedded intricately within the urban spatial structure. This book would especially be of interest to scholars interested in developmental economics, urban planning, geography, public policies, public management, and sociology, and also practitioners focusing on development and planning.

Rubric Nation Michelle Tenam-Zemach, Joseph E. Flynn, 2015-04-01 What is a rubric and how are they being used in teacher education and evaluation? When did rubrics become ubiquitous in the field of education? What impact do rubrics have on students, teachers, teacher educators, and the educational enterprise? This book is an edited volume of essays that critically examine the phenomenon of rubrics in teacher education, evaluation, and education more broadly. Rubrics have seen a dramatic rise in use and presence over the past twenty-five years in colleges of education and districts across the country. Although there is a wealth of literature about how to make rubrics, there is scant literature that explores the strengths and weaknesses of rubrics and the impact the rubric phenomenon is having in reshaping education. The chapters included in this edited volume will critically reflect on the contemporary contexts of rubrics and the uses and impact of rubrics in education. Since rubrics have become indelible in education, it is necessary for a fuller nuanced discussion of the phenomenon. Creating a book that explores these aspects of rubrics is timely and fundamental to expanding the discourse on this ubiquitous evaluation tool. This book is not meant to be a series of chapters dedicated to best practices for creating rubrics, nor is this text meant to present all sides of the rubric discussion. Rather, this text intends to offer critical polemics about rubrics that can spur greater critical discussion about a phenomenon in education that has largely been unquestioned in the literature.

Urban Africa and Violent Conflict Karen Büscher, 2020-06-09 Urban centres are at the heart of the dynamics of war and peace of stability and violence as safe havens for those seeking protection as concentrations of public administrative and military apparatus and as symbolic bases of state sovereignty and public authority Heavy fighting in South Sudan s capital city of Juba post electoral protests and brutal killings in Bujumbura Burundi and violent urban uprisings in Congo s cities of Goma and Kinshasa all demonstrate that cities represent critical arenas in African conflict and post conflict dynamics This comprehensive volume offers a profound analysis of the complex relationship between the dynamics of violent conflict and urbanisation in Central and Eastern Africa The authors underline the need to look simultaneously at cities to understand ongoing conflict and violence and at conflict dynamics to understand current urbanisation processes in this part of the world Building on empirical and analytical insights from cities in Uganda Rwanda Burundi DR Congo South Sudan and Kenya this collection demonstrates how emerging urbanism in the larger Great Lakes region and its Eastern neighbours presents a fascinating window to investigate the transformative power of protracted violent conflict This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of

Eastern African Studies      Defining the Urban Deljana Iossifova, Christopher N.H Doll, Alexandros Gasparatos, 2017-10-06

What is urban How can it be described and contextualised How is it used in theory and practice Urban processes feature in key international policy and practice discourses They are at the core of research agendas across traditional academic disciplines and emerging interdisciplinary fields However the concept of the urban remains highly contested both as material reality and imaginary construct The urban remains imprecisely defined Defining the Urban is an indispensable guide for the urban transdisciplinary thinker and practitioner Parts I and II focus on how Academic Disciplines and Professional Practices respectively understand and engage with the urban Included among others are Architecture Ecology Governance and Sociology Part III Emerging Approaches outlines how elements from theory and practice combine to form transdisciplinary tools and perspectives Written by eminent experts in their respective fields Defining the Urban provides a stepping stone for the development of a common language a shared ontology in the disjointed fields of urban research and practice It is a comprehensive and accessible resource for anyone with an interest in understanding how urban scholars and practitioners can work together on this complex theme

Foucault and a Politics of Confession in Education Andreas Fejes, Katherine Nicoll, 2014-07-25 In liberal democratic and capitalist societies today we are increasingly invited to disclose our innermost thoughts to others We are asked to turn our gaze inwards scrutinizing ourselves our behaviours and beliefs while talking and writing about ourselves in these terms This form of disclosure of the self resonates with older forms of church confession and is now widely seen in practices of education in new ways in nurseries schools colleges universities workplaces and the wider policy arena This book brings together international scholars and researchers inspired by the work of Michel Foucault to explore in detail what happens when these practices of confession become part of our lives and ways of being in education The authors argue that they are not neutral but political and powerful in their effects in shaping and governing people they examine confession as discursive and contemporary practice so as to provoke critical thought International in scope and pioneering in the detail of its scrutiny of such practices this book extends contemporary understanding of the exercise of power and politics of confessional practices in education and learning and offers an alternative way of thinking of them The book will be of value to educational practitioners scholars researchers and students interested in the politics of their own practices
