around we have the opportunity to be much more purposeful and intentional and that's where The Distance Learning Playbook for College and University Instruction will prove absolutely indispensable. Much more than a collection of cool tools and apps, The Distance Learning Playbook for College and University Instruction mobilizes decades of Visible Learning research to reveal those evidence-based strategies that work best in an online environment. Supplemented by video footage and opportunities to self-assess and reflect, the book addresses every dynamic that must be in place for students to learn even at a distance: Faculty-student relationships from a distance, Teacher credibility from a distance, Teacher clarity from a distance, Engaging tasks from a distance, Planning learning experiences from a distance, Feedback assessment and grading from a distance, Keeping the focus on learning from a distance or otherwise. What does our post-COVID future hold? We suspect Fisher, Frey, Almarode, and Hattie write it will include increased amounts of distance learning. In the meantime, let's seize on what we have learned to improve post-secondary education in any format, whether face-to-face or from a distance. We are all still active faculty members committed to teaching, scholarship, and service. The unexpected transition to remote learning doesn't mean we no longer know how to teach. We can still impact the lives of our students and know that we made a difference. The Distance Learning Playbook for College and University Instruction will show you how.

Douglas Fisher, Nancy Frey, John Almarode, and John Hattie Fire and Life Safety Educator, 2024-09 Teachers, Learners, Modes of Practice David Dirlam, 2017-02-17. Summarizing a half-century of work on the problem of identifying units of analysis for complex human behaviour, this book introduces modes of practice as a unit of analysis for the science and design of human activities and shows how to record them and create field guides at scales from individual to society. Revealing scientific analysis of human practices has been hampered by the lack of a unit of analysis. Dirlam describes how the difficulties of defining a unit are overcome by combining insights from mathematics and human development. Part II presents methods for developmental surveys and interviews that enable social scientists, designers, and education or training assessment professionals to gather data on modes of practice. Part III provides practical descriptions of how to organize interviews into developmental surveys that can be used by a community. Part IV inspires future advances in research and design. Concrete examples from science, design, and learning assessment are used throughout, and the appendix includes the results of 300 developmental interviews organized into exploratory descriptions of modes of practice and commitment.

Electrical Review and Western Electrician with which is Consolidated Electrocraft, 1913 Circuit Listening Andrew F. Jones, 2020-03-17. How the Chinese pop of the 1960s participated in a global musical revolution. What did Mao's China have to do with the music of youth revolt in the 1960s? And how did the mambo, the Beatles, and Bob Dylan sound on the front lines of the Cold War in Asia? In Circuit Listening, Andrew F. Jones listens in on the 1960s beyond the West and suggests how transistor technology, decolonization, and the Green Revolution transformed the sound of music around the globe. Focusing on the introduction of the transistor in revolutionary China and its Cold War counterpart in Taiwan, Circuit Listening reveals the hidden parallels between music as seemingly disparate as rock and roll and Maoist anthems It offers groundbreaking studies of Mandarin diva Grace Chang and the Taiwanese folk troubadour Chen Da examines how revolutionary aphorisms from the Little Red Book parallel the Beatles Revolution uncovers how U S military installations came to serve as a conduit for the dissemination of Anglophone pop music into East Asia and shows how consumer electronics helped the pop idol Teresa Teng bring the Maoist era to a close remaking the contemporary Chinese soundscape forever Circuit Listening provides a multifaceted history of Chinese language popular music and media at midcentury It profiles a number of the most famous and best loved Chinese singers and cinematic icons and places those figures in a larger geopolitical and technological context Circuit Listening s original research and far reaching ideas make for an unprecedented look at the role Chinese music played in the 60s pop musical revolution
