Hasian Jr., 2019-10-04 This book provides readers with a critical analysis of the restorative justice efforts of the Ovaherero and Nama communities in Namibia who contend that they should receive reparations for what happened to their ancestors during and after the 1904 1908 German Ovaherero Nama war Arguing that indigenous communities who once lived in a German colony called German South West Africa suffered from a genocide that could be compared to the World War II Holocaust Namibian activists sued Germany and German corporations in U S federal courts for reparations The author of this book uses a critical genealogical approach to all of this lawfare the politicizing of the law in order to illustrate some of the historical origins of this quest for social justice Portions of the book also explain some of the historical and contemporary realpolitik barriers that stood in the way of Ovaherero and Nama activists who were asking for acknowledgments of the Namibian genocide apologies from German officials repatriation of human remains from colonial times as well as restitution that might help with land redistribution in today s Namibia This book shows many of the difficulties that confront those indigenous communities who ask twenty first century audiences to pay restitution for large scale colonial massacres or imperial genocides that might have taken place more than a hundred years ago

Hinz, Helgard K. Patemann, 2006 Omudile muua ohapo epangelo liua ohamba Freely translated this proverb of the Ovakwanyama of northern Namibia means New leaves produce a good shade the laws of a king are always as good as new The proverb paints a picture of wisdom to express the dialectical relationship between continuity and change in customary law Since royal orders are supposed not to change from one king to the next they are always as good as new reads the explanatory note to the proverb by the anthropologist Loeb who recorded the proverb Traditional authority is like a tree standing on its roots rooted in the tradition created by the ancestors of the ruler and the community These roots remain firm stable and unchanged not so the concrete manifestation of authority that changes and responds to changes of the environment This makes that new leaves are produced by the rooted tree The new leaves are new and old They are old because in structure colour and their capacity to protect by giving shade they are more or less like the leaves of last year and the year before they are new because they react to the challenge of seasons The Shade of New Leaves emerged out of an agriculture as a key livelihood strategy in Southern and Eastern Africa against the background of the current development crisis and the crossroads that Southern and Eastern Africa faces It systematically analyses how the neoliberal architecture has deepened extroverted production for capitalist accumulation and how this has been to the detriment of the rural labour force and small scale and communal landowners Apart from examining how neoliberalism has triggered land alienations the book further argues that such policies have also impacted negatively on food security in a number of ways The book presents empirical evidence through twelve case studies emerging from in depth original fieldwork carried out in seven countries in the Southern and Eastern African region This book is a must read for scholars of economics sociology anthropology history
