Congress. House. Science and Technology Committee, 1975      The Origins of Federal Support for Higher Education Roger L. Williams, 1991-04-15 The Origins of Federal Support for Higher Education revises the traditional interpretation of the land grant college movement whose institutions were brought into being by the 1862 Morrill Act to provide for the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes Rather than being the inevitable consequence of the unfolding dynamic of institutional and socioeconomic forces Williams argues it was the active intervention and initiative of a handful of educational leaders that secured the colleges future above all the activities of George W Atherton For nearly three decades Atherton who was the seventh president of the Pennsylvania State University worked to secure consistent federal financial support for the colleges which in their early years received little assistance from the states they were designed to benefit He also helped to develop the institutions as comprehensive national universities grounded in the liberal arts and sciences a conception that countered the prevailing view of the colleges as mainly agricultural schools Atherton became the prime mover in the campaign to enact the 1887 Hatch Act which encouraged the establishment of agricultural experiment stations at land grant colleges The act marked the federal government's first effort to provide continuous funding to research units associated with higher education institutions At the same time Atherton played a key role in the formation of the first association of such institutions The Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations It was the Association that provided the critical mass needed to lobby Congress successively and to approach the many opportunities and threats the land grant colleges faced during the 1885-1906 period Atherton was also deeply involved in the campaign for the Morrill Act of 1890 which provided long sought annual appropriations to land grant colleges for a broad range of academic programs and encouraged steady growth in state support during the 1890s Roger Williams traces the motives and tactics behind a series of laws that made the federal government irreversibly committed to funding higher education and scientific research and provides rich new insights into the complexities polarities and inherent contradictions of the history of the American land grant movement      Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 1920      Re-cultivating Agricultural Science Or what I've Learned in 40 Years of Professional Life J. Lindsay Falvey, 2011 This book owes its origins to a collation of some of my publications for which a higher doctorate Doctor of Agricultural Science was awarded by the University of Melbourne in 2004 In that guise it was titled Integrating Reductionist Research into International Agricultural Development Re conceiving Agricultural Research for Development Technical Support for Development Thai Agriculture International Agriculture Agricultural Education It was thus an attempt to seek continuity across my research and development activities around various countries up until that time and to distill from it some conclusions that might inform future directions for international agricultural research and development The citation from the higher doctorate read to John Lindsay Falvey who from 30 years research combining technical social environmental policy and historical research in the developing world challenged the simple importing of agricultural technology He demonstrated that indigenous knowledge and culture is critical to sustainability food security and human development thereby potentially benefitting millions of persons participating in international development projects The citation is both an exaggeration and an understatement It may or may not have assisted millions of persons how can anyone know But in another sense the work revealed the lost element of wholeness that once characterized good science good lives and wisdom The information presented here is snippets from papers and books that strive to make that revelation explicit Its partial prototype benefitted in presentation and explication from my colleagues who formed the panel for the higher doctorate deliberations Professors David Chapman Adrian Egan and Robert White      Proceedings and Papers of the ...
