Salt Sugar Fat Michael Moss, 2013-02-26 From a Pulitzer Prize winning investigative reporter at The New York Times comes the troubling story of the rise of the processed food industry and how it used salt sugar and fat to addict us. Salt Sugar Fat is a journey into the highly secretive world of the processed food giants and the story of how they have deployed these three essential ingredients over the past five decades to dominate the North American diet. This is an eye opening book that demonstrates how the makers of these foods have chosen time and again to double down on their efforts to increase consumption and profits gambling that consumers and regulators would never figure them out. With meticulous original reporting access to confidential files and memos and numerous sources from deep inside the industry it shows how these companies have pushed ahead despite their own misgivings never aired publicly. Salt Sugar Fat is the story of how we got here and it will hold the food giants accountable for the social costs that keep climbing even as some of the industry's own say Enough already.

This inquiry emerges in response to an urgent need to understand how multisensory models of knowledge, truth, and justice can be ethically employed to nurture a more just society. Alongside this goal is a drive to understand the ways in which these modes of performance are being co-opted by authoritarians, white supremacists, anti-science activists, and others to shore up injustice, promote misinformation, and anxiously guard existing systems of power and privilege. From white supremacist milk-drinking performances to liberatory uses of culinary performance as pedagogy, Kristin Hunt analyzes both disturbing and inspiring alimentary events to understand how performers, cooks, scholars, artists, and activists can effectively cultivate models of alimentary performance that center plenitude, joy, and justice while pushing back against models rooted in anxiety, diminishment, and cruelty. The text should be of interest for students in performance studies, contemporary theatre, and theatre history, as well as courses in food studies and popular culture. Cooperative Living, 2007 Paula Deen Would LOVE These Diabetic Southern Comfort Foods Recipes Cookbook Marina Renee, 2013 If you have diabetes and absolutely love those wonderful comfort foods of The South, you've come to the right place.
