

Drug Abuse

In these days, I walk in the mirror and see,
What drugs and medicines have made me,
My bones feel thicker than wood,
My point of view is more than that,
I can see my bones and veins through my skin,
I need to ingurgitate all the death pills,
I can see my heart beat in my chest,
Oh this pain, such greatness, such a mess,
I can feel the fear coming closer.

I can feel the shadow getting dark,
And if anyone talks about illegal usurpation,
I just bend the law and win in opposition,
But this addiction has gone too far,
Damaging, the lungs, the heart,
Our death is ruled an overdose,
So our story book is closed,
With our bequest, sad and ruined,
Drugs leads to depression for everyone,
Some smalltime gladness, worth our organs,
Diurnal/daily problems, all due to drugs.

Hazen, 1992 Why do smokers claim that the first cigarette of the day is the best? What is the biological basis behind some heavy drinkers' belief that the hair of the dog method alleviates the effects of a hangover? Why does marijuana seem to affect one's problem-solving capacity? Intoxicating Minds is, in the author's words, a grand excavation of drug myth. Neither extolling nor condemning drug use, it is a story of scientific and artistic achievement, war and greed, empires and religions, and lessons for the future. Ciaran Regan looks at each class of drugs, describing the historical evolution of their use, explaining how they work within the brain's neurophysiology, and outlining the basic pharmacology of those substances. From a consideration of the effect of stimulants such as caffeine and nicotine and the reasons and consequences of their sudden popularity in the seventeenth century, the book moves to a discussion of more modern stimulants such as cocaine and ecstasy. In addition, Regan explains how we process memory, the nature of thought disorders, and therapies for treating depression and schizophrenia. Regan then considers psychedelic drugs and their perceived mystical properties and traces the history of placebos to ancient civilizations. Finally, Intoxicating Minds considers the physical consequences of our co-evolution with drugs, how they have altered our very being, and offers a glimpse of the brave new world of drug therapies.

Born in Cartersville, Georgia, in 1950, Delores Faye Phillips spent much of her childhood in Georgia before moving to Cleveland, Ohio. Best known for her 2004 novel The Darkest Child, which
