Framed Erin Tolley, 2015-12-03 Framed is a wake up call for those who think that race does not matter in Canada Combining an empirical analysis of print media with in depth interviews of elected officials former candidates political staffers and journalists this book uncovers the connections between race media coverage and politics in Canada As Erin Tolley reveals overt racism rarely occurs in the pages of Canadian newspapers but assumptions about race and diversity often influence media coverage Consequently as reporters go about selecting which political issues and events to cover who to quote and how to frame stories to make them resonate with the public they give visible minorities less prominent and more negative media coverage than their white counterparts Visible minority politicians are also more likely to be portrayed as products of their socio demographic backgrounds as uninterested in pressing policy issues and as less electorally viable The resulting news coverage Tolley argues does much to weaken Canada s commitment to a robust inclusive democracy

Doctoral Students: Attrition, Retention Rates, Motivation, and Financial Constraints Theodore Robert Regis, 2019-10-22 For the past 40 years American college and university administrators have registered record low retention and high attrition rates Education experts and researchers have claimed the problems are embarrassing to the United States higher education institutions Based on the problems graduate school administrators are unable to graduate doctoral students at U S population growth rates Currently only 1% of Americans hold PhD degrees Compared to other industrialized countries such as Japan China and Mexico the rate is insignificant The purpose of the mixed methods case study was to investigate if there was a relationship between motivation and retention rates at the doctoral level The goal of the study was to determine if extrinsic and intrinsic motivational factors and constraints were associated with persistence in a graduate doctoral program Data were collected from 193 doctoral and graduate students for the quantitative study while 20 doctoral and graduate students participated in a qualitative study followed by a thorough semi structured interview Inductive and deductive analyses were performed transcribed and opened while axial coding provided emergent themes and sub themes The research showed a direct relationship between financial implications attrition and retention rates and motivation in doctoral level students Many doctoral students believed the primary reason they were unable to pursue doctoral programs was based on financial hardship Doctoral students who responded to the survey added that motivation was the second significant variable that helped them continue their studies Mapping actors along value chains Stein, C.,Barron,
