Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The control group did not exercise. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during maximal exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant decrease in HR and HRR at rest and during maximal exercise compared to the control group. The control group had no significant change in HR and HRR. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will increase its output. This is because the producer's marginal revenue (MR) curve shifts up, and the producer will increase its output until MR equals marginal cost (MC).

Caution: Spilling, pouring, or collecting water from a Tivvy cooler into the TivvyBall is just fine. But, intentionally submerging the ball (even in a shallow tub of water) will void the warranty. The TivvyBall may not float! It's the top-down pouring technique required in the TivvyBall manual that safely transports your water to the TivvyBall. Submerging the TivvyBall is the worst possible way to use the TivvyBall. It's not worth the risk, and safety, to your car, your water, and your TivvyBall. If you're new, please read and install the TivvyBall correctly. TivvyBall is the only way to use the TivvyBall. TivvyBall is the only way to use the TivvyBall.
