

from Indian attacks and French invasions. The Stamp Act taxed paper goods sent to the colonies. It was the first of these laws while, with the tea tax, was one of the most infamous of these laws. The colonists thought taxation without representation in the British government to be unjust and openly protested these laws which led to hostilities between British troops and the Massachusetts Minutemen in 1775. These and other conflicts with the 'Red Coats' led to colonists forming the Continental Congress which immediately created the Continental Army and in 1776, signed the Declaration of Independence (The American Revolution, 2006).

Earliest Allies

European Conflicts Come to America

The Americans, outnumbered by more than three-to-one, were predictably defeated in the majority of battles that occurred during the war's first year. However, the Americans' fortune began to change following the victories at Saratoga and Germantown in 1777. These important first triumphs gave increased credibility to what had previously been widely considered as an unorganized, minor uprising certain to be vanquished by the mighty British army. By 1778, France had become convinced that Britain stood the chance of being defeated. Wanting nothing more than this, America's first formal alliance was with the French. Centuries-long enemy of Britain, France was recently defeated on American soil by the British (1763) and had been secretly funneling money, arms and clothing to the colonists from the beginning of the war in 1776. In 1778, the French had formally recognized the independence of the U.S. and signed a treaty that created a military and commercial alliance with the new country. Thereafter, "French

Dorwart, 2008 This book seeks to discover when why and how Delaware Valley communities between 1621 when the Dutch West India Company issued instructions for the security and defense of the Delaware River until 1815 as the region abandoned its Committee of Defense of the Delaware at the end of the War of 1812 first used military force to repel invasion in times of war and suppress insurrection in peacetime It traces how these mid Atlantic communities confronted constant threats from real or imagined enemies invasion and insurrection from earliest seventeenth century settlement and articulated ideas and built institutions for security defense and war It argues that from the beginning these Delaware Valley communities failed to differentiate between their concert for defense against external attacks or invasion in wartime with that of providing security for their home communities against internal enemies during peacetime Though conflicted about using force both to defend against invasion and suppress insurrection over time as the Delaware Valley communities moved to the center of colonial wars revolution and establishment of a republic and constitutional government their long experience with security defense and war that blurred the lines between military defense in wartime and preserving peacetime security eventually fused into Article 1 section 8 of the U S Constitution to empower the congress to use the militia to repel invasion and suppress insurrection Jeffery M Dorwart is professor of military naval and New Jersey history at Rutgers University
