Peter A. Victor, Brett Dolter

Physical Science Feb March 2014 Paper 1:

Handbook of the Politics of the Arctic Leif Christian Jensen, Geir Hønneland, 2015-09-25 The Arctic has again become one of the leading issues on the international foreign policy agenda in a manner unseen since the Cold War Drawing on the perspectives of geo politics and international law this Handbook offers fresh insights and perspectives on the most pressing issues grouped under the headings of political ascendancy climate and environmental issues resources and energy and the response and policies of affected countries Chemical news and Journal of physical science ,1870 The Chemical News and Journal of Physical Science ,1898 Decarbonization in the European Union Sebastian Oberthür, 2015-06-25 The authors examine how far internal policies in the European Union move towards the objective of reducing greenhouse gas emissions in the EU by 80 95 per cent by 2050 and how or whether the EU s 2050 objective to decarbonise could affect the EU s relations with a number of external energy partners Handbook on Growth and Sustainability Peter A. Victor, Brett Dolter, 2017-06-30 This Handbook assembles original contributions from influential authors such as Herman Daly Paul Ekins Marina Fischer Kowalski Jeroen van den Bergh William E Rees and Tim Jackson who have helped to define our understanding of growth and sustainability The Handbook also presents new contributions on topics such as degrowth the debt based financial system cultural change energy return on investment shorter working hours and employment and innovation and technology Explorations of these issues can deepen our understanding of whether growth is sustainable and in turn whether a move away from growth can be sustained With issues such as climate change looming large our understanding of growth and sustainability is critical This Handbook offers a broad range of perspectives that can help the reader to decide Growth Sustainability Both Or neither Gender and Climate Change Joane Nagel, 2025-08-05 Does gender matter in global climate change This timely and provocative book takes readers on a guided tour of basic climate science then holds up a gender lens to find out what has been overlooked in popular discussion research and policy debates We see that around the world more women than men die in climate related natural disasters the history of science and war are intimately interwoven masculine occupations and preoccupations and conservative men and their interests drive the climate change denial machine We also see that climate policymakers who embrace big science approaches and solutions to climate change are predominantly male with an ideology of perpetual economic growth and an agenda that marginalizes the interests of women and developing economies The book uses vivid case studies to highlight the often surprising gendered impacts of climate changes This new edition is a thorough update that includes revised and new chapters and new material that takes account of the significant advances in climate research environmental and social theory and the many political and social challenges posed in the wake of US elections Covid 19 pandemic and rapidly changing climate and environment The new edition also takes account of important social and cultural movements that resist challenges to women s rights and advocate for gender sexuality and racial justice This book will appeal to students researchers and academicians interested in environmental studies and gender studies It also will be of interest to policymakers activists and others involved with environmental policy and governance

Science Teaching in Schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Science and Technology Committee,2006-11-05 The Committee's report examines science and mathematics teaching in secondary schools in England focusing on the following issues the take up of science and mathematics at GCSE and A level the provision of careers advice to students problems in the recruitment and retention of teachers the quality of teaching methods and the role of continuing professional development The Committee finds that effective science teaching in schools is essential both in order to ensure a satisfactory general level of scientific literacy in society and to enable the next generation of scientists and engineers to progress into higher education and beyond It argues that the current examination system forces students to study an excessively narrow range of subjects at too early an age and it recommends that the Government should reconsider the Tomlinson proposals for a broader diploma based system for 14-19 year old students based on the International Baccalaureate This would ensure that students receive a more rounded education and are not made to over specialise before they are able to see the merits of studying science and mathematics Concerns are also raised about the shortage of science teachers particularly specialist physics and chemistry teachers the quality of careers advice in schools and the importance of practical science in schools
