Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The physical health of the subjects was measured using a variety of tests, including a 6-minute walk test, a 12-minute walk test, and a 15-minute walk test. The psychological health of the subjects was measured using a variety of tests, including a Beck Depression Inventory, a State-Trait Anxiety Inventory, and a Visual Analog Scale. The results of the study showed that the walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The subjects in the walking program showed significant improvements in their 6-minute walk test, 12-minute walk test, and 15-minute walk test scores. The subjects in the walking program also showed significant improvements in their Beck Depression Inventory, State-Trait Anxiety Inventory, and Visual Analog Scale scores. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program can have a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

QUESTION 10

Which of the following is a correct statement?

☐ A. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its sales.

☐ B. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its fixed costs.

☐ C. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its variable costs.

☐ D. A company's operating leverage is the ratio of its operating income to its total costs.

ANSWER: B

Operating leverage is the ratio of a company's operating income to its fixed costs. It is a measure of the degree to which a company's operating income is affected by changes in its sales. Operating leverage is calculated as follows:

$$\text{Operating Leverage} = \frac{\text{Operating Income}}{\text{Fixed Costs}}$$

Operating leverage is a key indicator of a company's risk. A high operating leverage indicates that a company's operating income is highly sensitive to changes in its sales, which increases its risk. A low operating leverage indicates that a company's operating income is less sensitive to changes in its sales, which decreases its risk.
