Technology and Society Deborah G. Johnson, Jameson M. Wetmore, 2008-10-17 An anthology of writings by thinkers ranging from Freeman Dyson to Bruno Latour that focuses on the interconnections of technology, society and values and how these may affect the future. Technological change does not happen in a vacuum; decisions about which technologies to develop, fund, market and use engage ideas about values as well as calculations of costs and benefits. This anthology focuses on the interconnections of technology, society and values. It offers writings by authorities as varied as Freeman Dyson, Laurence Lessig, Bruno Latour and Judy Wajcman that will introduce readers to recent thinking about technology and provide them with conceptual tools, a theoretical framework and knowledge to help understand how technology shapes society and how society shapes technology. It offers readers a new perspective on such current issues as globalization, the balance between security and privacy, environmental justice and poverty in the developing world. The careful ordering of the selections and the editors' introductions give Technology and Society a coherence and flow that is unusual in anthologies. The book is suitable for use in undergraduate courses in STS and other disciplines. The selections begin with predictions of the future that range from forecasts of technological utopia to cautionary tales. These are followed by writings that explore the complexity of sociotechnical systems, presenting a picture of how technology and society work in step, shaping and being shaped by one another. Finally, the book goes back to considerations of
