

A young RN officer wearing the open-collared White Coat, an optional item of tropical clothing worn instead of the White Jacket with stand collar.

A fine study of a Victorian Petty Officer armourer wearing No. 1 Dress.

A Petty Officer gunner from HMS Prince George, a Majestic class battleship (1895–1923). His collar appears to have a single broad edging, but in reality the three tapes are stitched so close as to appear as one. He carries the bosun's call in the knife pocket.

A volunteer seaman of the RNR c.1900. The Reservist wears the brown leather Sea Service Equipment and is armed with a Lee-Metford rifle. The collar tapes have been given a waned edge rather than a straight one.

articulation of principles which it was expected might well be adapted once the party or politician that promoted them took office Thereafter manifestos became increasingly central to electoral politics and to the practice of governing and this has been especially the case since 1945 Parties were now expected to outline in detail what they would do in office and explain how the policies would be paid for Brexit has complicated this process with the will of the people as supposedly expressed in the 2016 referendum result clashing with the conventional role of the election manifesto as offering a mandate for action
